Page 12 1 Fund, sued as Altigefi-Altipro Master a/k/a Olympia Capital 2 Management. And my colleague Christopher Man is on the 3 telephone line. THE COURT: Good morning. Okay, Counsel? Before you start, actually, I wanted to just make 5 6 a point I made in the other cases. A lot of documents have 7 been filed under seal in the various cases. So I will give the parties until Monday, May 6th to determine if there's 8 9 anything filed under seal that any party wants to withdraw 10 from the record because they don't want it to be cited, 11 quoted, or otherwise referred to in a potential opinion. 12 And if anything is not withdrawn, I will assume even 13 something filed under seal. The party recognizes that it 14 may be cited, quoted, otherwise referenced in an opinion. 15 So if there's anything anyone wants to not be 16 considered, just withdraw it from the record by Monday. 17 Otherwise, we'll proceed as I outlined. 18 MR. LAUFER: Very good. Thank you, Judge. 19 THE COURT: And that goes to all the cases, 20 obviously. Okay, thank you. Please proceed, Counsel. 21 22 MR. LAUFER: Of course. So as I mentioned a 23 moment ago, I am Greg Laufer from Paul Weiss. We represent 24 certain Citco defendants. And in particular here we've made 25 a motion to dismiss on personal jurisdiction grounds with respect to the Citco Group Limited, Citco Banking

Corporation N.V., and Citco Global Custody N.V. I will refer to them collectively as either the Citco defendants or the Citco moving defendants.

I am not going to be addressing at the podium today the personal jurisdiction arguments that we've made with respect to Citco Global Custody and Citco Banking Corporation in light of Your Honor's decision in UBS Europe. We obviously understand Your Honor's ruling in that case. We reserve all rights with respect to that ruling.

Instead, I would like to focus our argument today on the arguments we've made with respect to personal jurisdiction as to the Citco Group. And I think I can be relatively brief because we don't think there's really any viable argument here that this Court can exercise personal jurisdiction over Citco Group under the law of this circuit.

I know Your Honor is very aware of the facts of this case. I just want to give a little bit of context to the extent relevant to our motion.

So the Plaintiffs here of course are liquidators appointed by a court in the BVI to represent the interests of certain feeder funds that invested all or substantially all of their assets with Madoff. And they brought these adversary proceedings in an effort to recoup funds from beneficial holders of investments in those feeders funds who redeemed. They've sued certain Citco entities, among which the Citco Banking and Citco Custody entities that I just mentioned and that we also have personal jurisdiction arguments with respect to. And they sued those entities because those entities had clients that were beneficial holders in the feeder funds. And those Citco entities were the nominal holders of those beneficial holders' investments in feeder funds.

Citco Group on the other hand is positioned quite differently from those entities. And as I'll explain in a moment and as set out in our papers including in the declaration of Robert Voges, who is a Citco Group director, Citco Group is just a Cayman-based holding company. It's the indirect parent of the Citco Banking and Custody entities that I just mentioned as well as dozens of other Citco-related entities around the world that conduct all sorts of business.

All of the liquidators' claims against our clients have now been rejected except for one, which is a claim that seeks to impose a constructive trust over proceeds sent to redeeming investors in the feeder funds. So those are the facts in basic terms.

So now let me turn to the personal jurisdiction arguments with respect to Citco Group. As I said before, the short of it is there is no personal jurisdiction with respect to Citco Group and there are really two main points that I want to make.

The first critical point is that the complaint very clearly makes, and I don't think that my friends on the other side dispute, blanket group pleading jurisdictional allegations sometimes as to all defendants and sometimes as to various Citco-related defendants together. And it tries to collapse those distinct entities into one ball of wax.

That doesn't work under Second Circuit precedent.

As we cited in the Charles Schwab court case, 883

F.3d 68, the Second Circuit has been very clear that you have to do this on a defendant-by-defendant basis.

Otherwise, it makes it, in the Second Circuit's words,

"impossible to determine", that's a quote, which allegations apply to which defendant. And that's exactly what we have going on here in the liquidator's second-amended complaint.

And I'll give the Court just a couple of examples.

If you look at Paragraph 19, there the liquidators say that "Defendants purposely availed themselves of the benefits of the New York forum." They go on in that paragraph to say defendants selected U.S. dollars. They go on still in paragraph 19 of the second-amended complaint to say defendants derived significant revenue from New York.

I'll give you one more example. Paragraph 20 of the second-amended complaint says this, "This court has jurisdiction over the Defendants," big D, "by virtue of agreements entered into by the funds and what the liquidators call Citco record holders," which as I'll come back to in a moment is defined to include certain nonparty Citco entities but to exclude, as relevant here, Citco Group.

I don't think that my friends on the other side have disputed that characterization of their complaint, and the complaint doesn't actually say anything at all specifically about Citco group's contacts with the United States as opposed to alleging that those contacts were with a constellation of other Citco entities in a generic sense. That does not work under governing law.

So now let me get to the second point I wanted to make, which is this. Even if you put aside the group pleading problem that the liquidators can't seem to get around, the jurisdictional allegations are not sufficient.

And there are a few reasons for this. For one, the complaint itself -- and I alluded to this a moment ago -- is drafted in a way that explicitly excludes the Citco group from its jurisdictional allegations. And I'll give you again some examples.

If you look for instance at paragraph 39, the second-amended complaint alleges there that what it refers to as the Citco Record Holders, which are defined in the second-amended complaint to exclude the Citco group, "Purchased shares in and made redemptions from the funds for the benefit of the beneficial shareholders."

And then if you look, just to give you another example, Your Honor, at Paragraph 65 and 66 of the complaint, it alleges there that, quote, the Citco Record Holders, again, defined to exclude the Citgo group, "Purchased shares in and made redemptions from the funds for the benefit of the beneficial shareholders." And it goes on to make similar allegations again referring only to the Citco Record Holders, big C, big R, big H, but to exclude Citco Group.

And beyond all of that, we've also submitted a declaration from a Citco Group representative, a director who I mentioned a few moments ago, Robert Voges. He has testified in his declaration, with testimony by the way that the liquidators have not even tried to impugn or challenge, and he has explained the following. "The Citco Group is a Cayman entity. It is a holding company. It has no business operations of its own whatsoever. It has no employees of its own whatsoever. It has never transacted business with or provided services to the feeder funds or any of the beneficial shareholders at issue in this litigation. It's never transacted any business in the United States. It has never maintained any operations or employees in the United States. It doesn't actually have or do either of those things. And it otherwise has never had any contact with the feeder funds in this case. Again, the liquidators I don't think have sought to or actually challenged any of that testimony, which on its own shows that the Citco Group doesn't have any nexus with this country. So that's alone enough to show that there's no personal jurisdiction here under any applicable standard.

So what do the liquidators do in the fact of all these impediments? They've got a few arguments that are either divorced from their actual allegations as set out in their complaint, or legally wrong, or both. Let me give you some examples.

The liquidators say that the Citco Group is subject to jurisdiction by virtue of what they claim is a pecuniary gain on specified undefined that Citco Group is alleged to have gotten from its operating subsidiaries. And for that proposition, which is unsupported by any evidence by the way, they rely on this Court's decision from 2012 in Picard v. Bureau of Labor. That argument doesn't work. For starters, the complaint doesn't say anything about a pecuniary gain that Citco Group is alleged to have gotten from any operating subsidiaries. But putting that aside, this whole issue of pecuniary gain and agency wasn't even discussed in Picard and none of the other cases that the liquidators cite supports their argument that revenue indirectly, allegedly indirectly taken in by a parent company through its subsidiaries is enough on its own to show a principal-agent relationship for personal jurisdiction purposes.

And on top of that, demonstrating what I just said, we've actually cited caselaw showing that merely alleging that the Citco Group may have indirectly gotten revenue in the U.S. through entities isn't enough. And again, I'm just assuming for present purposes that's true. But there is nothing to credit here because they haven't put anything in front of you for that proposition.

But we can point the Court for support to the decision by the Southern District of New York in SPV Osus Ltd. v. Unicredit Bank Austria, 2019 WL 1438163 (2019). And that decision specifically held that the defendants had "derived significant revenue" from the forum by facilitating the transfer of funds into Madoff's account wasn't good enough to make a personal jurisdiction showing. And again here the liquidators don't even try to distinguish that decision in any meaningful way, which we think is dispositive.

The other thing that the liquidators have done or attempted to do to try to get around this personal jurisdiction obstacle is this. They claim in their opposition brief that the Citco Group supposedly attended all of just four meetings with Madoff representatives in New York in the six-year period from May 2000 to May 2006. That doesn't do the trick, either.

The very documents that the liquidators rely on to show that that meeting or those meetings involve employees of Citco Group actually show that they were employees of Citco subsidiaries. As I mentioned, Mr. Voges has testified in writing in testimony that has not been challenged and that the liquidators in fact haven't even tried to challenge, that the Citco Group doesn't have employees. It only has a few directors. And what's more, those meetings that the liquidators are so fixated on have nothing to do with redemptions from the feeder funds or any other matter relating to their EDI constructive trust claims. So it is totally irrelevant for specific personal jurisdiction purposes.

And just to put a finer point on it, even the one meeting that was attempted by an individual named Ermanno Unternaehrer, he was a director and executive committee member at the Citco Group, he as the documents show attended the one meeting that he is alleged to have attended in his capacity as a representative of Citco Financial Services. That is one of the many operating subsidiaries under the Citco Group umbrella that provides hedge fund administration services. And the objective and purpose of that meeting had absolutely nothing to do with any of the issues in this case. That meeting was about liabilities or extinguishing liabilities to that hedge fund administration business. And we have cited cases, including for the United States Supreme Court, for the what I think is uncontroversial proposition that officers and directors of a company can of course be dual (indiscernible). They can have different roles. And under the United States Supreme Court's decision in United States v. Best Foods, there is a presumption that officers and directors act for their subsidiaries, not the parent company absent contrary evidence. And we've cited other decisions to that effect on Page 17 of our reply brief. So none of this smattering of emails changes anything.

In yet another attempt to beat back our motion, the liquidators also try to impute their alleged jurisdictional contacts of some of these Citco operating entities to the Citco Group. And let me give you another example. They say in Paragraph 39 of the second-amended complaint that "at all relevant times all Citco recordholders and the Citco banks were wholly owned subsidiaries of Citco Group Limited and all the Citco entities worked under the ultimate direction of the Citco Group's executive committee." That argument does not work, either. Because under Second Circuit caselaw that we've cited, the liquidators would have to show in order to support their imputation or agency theory that the relevant subsidiaries, meaning Citco Banking and Custody, which I mentioned earlier, were either agents or mere departments of the Citco Group. That's the language from the caselaw. And the liquidators have not even tried to meet that test here, meaningfully tried. They argue instead that the Citco Group and its subsidiaries acted as "an integrated company". And I think as supposed support for that proposition, they have taken some language from promotional materials that are publicly available on websites. None of that is relevant in The Southern District of New York's decision in the least. Tese-Milner v. De Beers Centenary proves as much. That's 613 F.Supp.2d 404. It's a 2019 case. And that case specifically said that the term "integrated enterprise" has no legal meaning for personal jurisdiction purposes. And the First Department of the Appellate Division said much the same thing in Fimbank P.L.C. v. Woori Fin. Holdings Co., 104 A.D.3d 602 (2013). And we have other cases to that effect cited in Footnote 13 on Page 15 of our reply brief.

And just to underscore that point once more, the First Department of the Appellate Division in yet a different case rejected practically identical allegations concerning the Citco Group itself just a few years ago in FIA Leveraged Fund Limited v. Grant Thornton LLP, 150 A.D.3d 492 (N.Y. App. Div. 2017). And again, the liquidators make no attempt to distinguish that case or explain why its reasoning doesn't apply with equal force here.

Almost finally, the other thing the liquidators do is point to cases finding that in their view a subsidiary acted as an agent of a foreign parent. And they have tried to analogize those cases to the circumstances here. best example they can find though actually goes the other That's the Hebrew University of Jerusalem case, 2023 WL 2667531 from this Court, decided just last year. As I said, that case actually rejected the theory that's being advanced by the liquidators here. And in that case, the Court held that there was insufficient evidence of an agency relationship between a foreign parent and operating subsidiaries even though in that case there were far more allegations of control than there are here. Here, there are actually practically no allegations of control. And all of the other cases, just to put a finer point on that subject, all the other cases that the liquidators have cited for that proposition involve situations where there was either a mere complete identity between the principal and the agent or it was clear from the evidence that the alleged agent was acting under the control or for the benefit of the principal. There is no allegation here or evidence to that effect. And in fact, courts have dismissed claims on personal jurisdiction grounds as to non-U.S. Citco parent entities based on acts allegedly taken by their operating subsidiaries. One example of that is a 2004 decision from the Southern District, ATSI Communications v. Shaar Fund. And that case granted a motion to dismiss on personal jurisdiction grounds because -- and this is from the Court's own reasoning -- the plaintiffs "conclusory allegation that Citco controlled --" and I'm bracketing another non-U.S. entity unbracket, was "tenuous". And again, the liquidators have no response to this holding and don't try to distinguish it. So for all those reasons, Your Honor, personal jurisdiction with respect to Citco Group is lacking. think that's enough to grant our motion. But we stand on our papers with respect to the reasonableness test under the Supreme Court's decision in Volkswagen. For all of the reasons that we've set out here, it would obviously be unreasonable to subject Citco Group under the constitution to this Court's personal jurisdiction under these circumstances. So we would ask for the motion to be granted. Thank you. THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. Would anyone like to be heard in response? MR. JONAS: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning again, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. JONAS: Jeff Jonas from Brown Rudnick for the -- on behalf of Ken Krys and Greg Mitchell as joint liquidators.

Your Honor, before getting to any specific defendant, I think it would be useful to frame up just a few things that are applicable to all of the defendants and arguments today. And I'll just take a brief moment to do that.

There have been significant briefings which I incorporate and rely on. Of course early this year Your Honor issued four memorandum opinions and orders denying the motions to dismiss of defendants HSBC Security Services Luxembourg S.A., HSBC Private Bank Suisse S.A., UBS Europe S.E. Luxembourg Branch, and Merrill Lynch International.

Based on our limited time, I will try not to regurgitate those opinions. But of course I incorporate and rely on those for purposes of today's argument as well.

I will attempt to be succinct and to the point in focusing the Court on what we believe to be a clear path to denial of each and every of the remaining motions to dismiss which are being heard today.

As I said the last time, Your Honor, fundamentally the question before the Court today is the same as it was at the earlier hearing; should sophisticated investors like the defendants here which knowingly and purposely took advantage of the U.S. financial markets and utilized the U.S. banking system for profit be able to avoid any redress in the United States? The easy and simple answer as already found by the Court on multiple occasions is no. The ultimate merits of the liquidators' claims are for another day. But we should at least be able to prosecute them against these defendants.

In the end, as in all matters before this Court, the Court's approach should consider benefits and burdens. Should these defendants get the benefits they receive, including taking advantage of the U.S. securities markets, without the burdens, including now being subject to jurisdiction to face possible recourse for their actions. Again, the answer must be no.

Of course, in order for a court to have personal jurisdiction, the defendant must have sufficient minimum contacts with the United States that relate to the claims at issue and exercise of jurisdiction must be reasonable.

Minimum contacts are found where a party has purposely availed itself of the jurisdiction. And again to wrap up on preliminaries, our burden is to make a factually supported prima facie case showing of personal jurisdiction.

One more prelim, Your Honor. And I think this is critically important. The highest court relevant to these matters today has spoken in my opinion dispositively on the issue before the Court today. In In re Bernard L. Madoff Investment Services LLC, 2023 WL 395225 in January of 2023, the district court for the Southern District of New York, Judge Schofield in denying a defendant's motion for leave to appeal, the bankruptcy court's denial of its motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction stated as follows.

Defendant argues that the bankruptcy court erred by stating that the trustee has alleged legally sufficient allegations of jurisdiction simply by stating that Lombard Odier knowingly directed funds to be invested with New York-based BLMIS.

Contrary to that argument, the bankruptcy court correctly held, applying settled precedent, that by intentionally investing in the New York-based investment fund, Defendant purposely availed itself of the privilege of doing business in New York.

The trustee's instant suit is based on defendant's investment of tens of millions of dollars in Fairfield Sentry Limited with the specific goal of having funds invested in BLMIS in New York with intent to profit therefrom. Such investment was not haphazard. Rather, defendant intentionally tossed a seed from abroad to take root and grow as a tree in the Madoff money orchard in the United States and reap the benefits therefrom.

Defendant has not pointed to any conflicting authority that suggests a different conclusion. While neither party has cited a previous Second Circuit case addressing this precise fact pattern, the outcome is dictated by straightforward application of Supreme Court precedent.

Your Honor, of course this makes perfect sense, as you've already found. When defendants seek to take advantage of the U.S. securities market by investing in the Madoff funds directly or indirectly, they should be subject to personal jurisdiction in New York.

Although the district court has confirmed in my opinion that all that is necessary for personal jurisdiction here is to show a definitely intentionally invested in Madoff, we'll do better than that, as we've done before. Whether by showing defendants used or directed the use of U.S. correspondent bank accounts, agreed to New York law and New York courts governing their investments, or conducted due diligence relating to Madoff, sometimes coming to New York to do that.

No matter how much the Defendants try to hide behind other parties and twist the facts and law, the evidence -- and I'm going to focus on the evidence today, Your Honor -- supporting personal jurisdiction is overwhelming and each and every motion to dismiss should be denied.

So let me turn to Citco, Your Honor. And, Your Honor, I think it's important, notwithstanding that my adversary's arguments were focused only on one of the Citco entities, the nature of our arguments and the other motions are live, of course. I think it's important to deal with Citco in its entirety. And to do that, Your Honor, I would like to hand up a page or a chart from our complaint.

If I may, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Of course. Thank you.

MR. JONAS: Your Honor, this is a chart from our complaint. And I just want to really quickly take a look at it because I think it helps orientate the Citco arguments.

Because Citco was deeply involved in the Fairfield funds and Madoff including monitoring processing subscriptions and redemptions, paying to or depositing in accounts of the funds all monies and securities received on behalf of the funds, establishing and maintaining a register of holders of shares in the funds, issuing and cancelling share certificates and calculating the net asset value of funds shares on a monthly basis.

If you look at the chart, Your Honor, I won't spent too much time on it, but you'll see on the left-hand side are the entity names. You'll see a column that says moving defendant. That is are we here today on a motion to dismiss for any of these particular Citco entities. As you'll see at the top, the Citco Group Limited where -- is where counsel spent most of their time today. Yes, they are a moving defendant. Citco Banking Corporation N.V., and Citco Global Custody N.A.N.V. Yes, those also defendants and have filed motions to dismiss.

However, I want to note, Your Honor, there are additional Citco entities that are defendants that have not contested jurisdiction. Those are Citco Bank Nederland, Citco Bank Nederland N.V., the Dublin Branch, Citco Global N.V., Citco Fund Services Europe B.V. Again, Citco entities in the scheme here which I'll get to that have not sought to have the cases dismissed back on lack of personal jurisdiction.

The only other thing I would point out, Your Honor, and then we can move on, is the column "Relationship with the Fairfield Funds". You see at the top that Citco

Group Limited was the parent of all the Citco entities below. Citco Banking Corporation was a subscriber of shares of the funds in its nominee or agent, which I'll get to.

Citco Global Custody and then Citco Global Custody, an actual subscriber of shares of the funds and our position as agent for Citco Banking.

But again, Your Honor, I want to point out the additional entities had many capacities relating to Fairfield and effectively Madoff. There was Citco Bank

Nederland was the fund bank and custodian. Citco Bank

Nederland N.V., also fund bank and custodian. Citco Global Custody, fund custodian and depository and also a subscriber of shares, and Citco Fund Services, the fund administrator.

As you can see and will see, Your Honor, and as the evidence supports, Citco, through its many entities top to bottom was all over Fairfield and Madoff. Up, down, and sideways.

First I would like to address Citco Global Custody Curacao and Citco Bank Curacao, recipients of $70 million in improper redemptions.

Citco Bank. I won't always reference Curacao, but those are the entities I'm referring to, Your Honor. This is confirmed in the evidentiary record, including because Citco Bank Curacao has confirmed in its own words, "Citco Global Custody Curacao is a nominee organized under the laws of the Netherlands Antilles and is operated and 100 percent owned and controlled by Citco Bank Curacao. That's at Exhibit 4, Your Honor. Sometimes I will -- today as I refer to exhibits these are the numbered exhibits with respect to each defendant. So you may hear some of the numbers more than once, but that's how they correlate. So this is Exhibit 4 with respect to Citco. I won't always give the Bates pages, Your Honor. And if I do, there's different names on the Bates pages. For example, this one is Citco Redeemer, 02125117. I won't always do that. It's confusing and it takes time. But our papers properly reflect that,

Your Honor.

Moreover, Your Honor, brokerage and custody agreements entered into between Citco Bank Curacao, Citco Global Custody Curacao, and beneficial shareholders, customers for brokerage and custodial services with respect to Fairfield Fund investments show not only that a principal agent relationship existed between Citco Bank Curacao and Citco Global Custody Curacao, but that Citco Bank Curacao benefitted financially from the activities of Citco Global Custody Curacao.

Citco Global Custody acted as recordholder for Citco Bank's Fairfield investments. In other words, it fronted for Citco Bank.

Article 3 of Citco Global Custody Curacao's articles of association state that Citco Global Custody Curacao's "Exclusive objective is to hold for the benefit of clients of Citco Bank Curacao securities or rights regarding securities." Exhibit 53.

Your Honor, my adversary mentioned Picard v.

Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He is right; the decision was a finding that there was impersonal jurisdiction. I would say on very different and much worse facts than we have here. But the holding of the case I think is instructive. In that case -- and that's Picard v. Hebrew University of Jerusalem, WL 2667531 *7 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. Mar. 28, 2023) -- Judge Morris found that, "To establish an agency relationship for purposes of personal jurisdiction, a plaintiff must show that the alleged agent act for the benefit of and with the knowledge and consent of the non-resident principal and over which that principal exercises some control." I think we've more than done that in spaces, Your Honor, with respect to the two Citco entities we're dealing with. I haven't gotten to Citco Group Limited yet, Your Honor, but I think we've already demonstrated just on the record I've put forth.

She also found that what matters are the realities of the relationship in question, not formal agency law. I think it's also worth noting, Your Honor, In re EUR Government Bonds Antitrust Litigation, 2020 WL 427381 *6, another Southern District of New York case from 2020, reconsideration denied at 2020 WL 7321056, which held that a defendant that "Transacts financial instruments in a forum has purposely availed itself of the forum and may thusbe subject to personal jurisdiction for claims arising from those transactions --" here's the best part, Your Honor, "--even when the defendant does so indirectly by effecting those transactions through their agent."

Your Honor, in our papers we've cited some other examples where courts have found this types of relationship and imputed the agent's conduct and contacts to the principal. I won't cite those here, but they are in our papers.

I would cite, Your Honor -- and it's my last cite on this topic, but I think it's important. I would cite, because it's very much on point, the Spetner v. Palestine Inv. Bank, 70 F.4th 632 (2d Cir. 2023), a case which you cited in your earlier opinions so I know you're familiar with it. And the Second Circuit Court of Appeals found that "A foreign bank's choice to project itself into New York can be evident through the selection of repeated use of an agent's correspondent account in the forum." This result follows from two strands of well-established jurisprudence. Foreign entity can be subject to suit in New York based on the acts of its agent and sustained use of correspondent banking account constitutes transacting business.

The quote went on to say that agency within the meaning, in that case 302(a)(A), is given a broad interpretation. A plaintiff does not need to establish a formal agency relationship in order to attribute the actions of the agent to the principal. To exercise personal jurisdiction over a defendant based on the acts of an agent, a showing must be made the alleged agent acted in New York for the benefit of with the knowledge and consent and under some control of the non-resident principal.

Your Honor, this is going to come up in each of the arguments today because many of these defendants did not hold Fairfield shares in their own name. They used a front. In this case, Citco Bank used Citco Global Custody. other cases, you'll see there were different fronts. And it can't be the case, it can't be the law, Your Honor, that when an entity simply -- an entity takes an agent and the only -- as I've just gone through with this case, the only purpose of the agent is to hold and do the bidding of the principal, that it can then stand up and say, oh, we've got nothing to do with the jurisdiction, that was somebody else, we don't know who they are. It's silly, Your Honor. And that's going to come up repeatedly. I won't make these arguments over and over again, which is why I thought it was important to do it at the outset and save ourselves some time later.

So let's turn to this case and the particulars.

Here, Citco Global Custody Curacao signed subscription agreements incorporating a private placement memorandum,

PPMs as you know, which as we've seen before made it clear that substantially all of the Fairfield Funds assets were investments in New York-based Bernard L. Madoff Investment

Securities LLC, or as I'll refer to it and we have referred to it, BLMIS. Again, what does it mean? They knew they were investing in the U.S. securities markets. That's at Exhibit 1, Exhibit 4, Exhibit 19, Exhibit 20, Exhibit 21, Exhibit 22, and Exhibit 23.

Citco Bank Curacao and Citco Global Custody

Curacao intentionally invested in Madoff, a New York-based investment fund. They purposely availed themselves of the privilege of doing business in New York. Moreover, as detailed in our papers and the evidentiary record, both Citco Bank and Citco Global Custody officers and directors directly and repeatedly were involved with Fairfield and Madoff including having concerns about verifying Madoff assets. Here's just two examples.

The managing directors of each of the Citco banks

-- this is the Citco bank itself, Your Honor -- including

Citco Bank Curacao participated in orderly senior banker meetings. And I'll also -- some of the exhibits are deposition transcript. That's Exhibit 5 at 99:10.

And the meeting on July 11th, 2001, the Citco banks discussed "Madoff Fairfield Sentry custody", including a discussion about "A visit is to be planned to Madoff for an independent verification." That's Exhibit 28.

Second, Your Honor -- and there are many, many examples we put into the record, and I don't want to belabor it. I'm just going to make one more. There are numerous emails throughout 2000, 2001, 2002, including to Citco Bank Curacao managing directors regarding due diligence of Madoff, which included meeting in New York with Bernie Madoff himself.

One such email to a Citco Bank Curacao managing direct stated, "The objective of increasing Citco's comfort level with respect to the existence of the assets in relation to our responsibilities as custodian was not achieved." That's back in 2000, Your Honor. That's Exhibit 39.

Citco Bank Curacao and Citco Global Custody

Curacao voluntarily chose to designate U.S. correspondent accounts at Citibank and HSBC Bank to receive the redemption payments from Sentry at issue here. Again, Exhibit 1, through 49.

Exhibit 4, Exhibit 40, Exhibit 41. Also see Exhibits 45

They also used Sentry's U.S. correspondent bank accounts as the destination of their subscription payments. There were 71 subscription payments to Sentry's U.S. correspondent bank at HSBC totaling more than $100 million. That's Exhibits 15 through 17, 18-1 and 18-2. They also directed Sentry to send redemption payments to their U.S. correspondent accounts at Citibank or HSBC 77 times totaling approximately $70 million. Again, Exhibits 45 through 49. It's compilations of the redemption transactional documents.

Citco Bank Curacao received a fee from its clients for each subscription and redemption transaction. subscription agreement signed by Citco Bank Curacao and Citco Global Custody Curacao include provisions, as you've seen before, designating governance of New York law and submission to New York courts as the venue for dispute resolution. Citco Bank Curacao and Citco Global Custody Curacao also communicated with Fairfield's manager, FGG, in New York about Senty subscriptions, investor information and relations, and account administration as evidenced by Exhibits 54 through 58. Citco Bank Curacao and its agent, Citco Global Custody Curacao, intentionally invested in Madoff to take advantage of the U.S. securities market. They used U.S. correspondent bank accounts repeatedly. They did extensive diligence, including meeting with Bernie Madoff. Their motions to dismiss should be denied. Just one minute, Your Honor? THE COURT: Please. MR. JONAS: I apologize, Your Honor. Going so fast here that -- the chart is actually from our oppositions, not the complaint. THE COURT: No problem. I just want to make that clear. THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. JONAS: Okay, Your Honor. With that as a backdrop, and I do think it's a critically important backdrop, let's turn to Citco -- I would like to turn to Citco Group Limited.

The liquidator's claims against Citco Group Limited are somewhat different than the direct constructive trust redemption claims which make up most of this litigation. The liquidators assert that Citco Group Limited is liable on $1.7 billion of constructive trust claims on straightforward agency liability because it directed the Citco banks and Citco-registered holders as agents.

Citco Group Limited is liable as principal for those agents' liability-creating acts. Of course, Your Honor, the merits of these claims are not before the court today. Rather, all we need to do today is demonstrate a prima facie case that the Court has personal jurisdiction over Citco Group Limited.

We believe we have put forth more than sufficient evidence of Citco Group Limited's direct purposeful availament to do this as I will describe momentarily. But we also believe that we have shown there is personal jurisdiction over Citco Group Limited because the conduct of its agents, including its subsidiaries, Citco Bank Curacao, Citco Global Custody Curacao as I described a few minutes ago can be imputed to it.

One or the other, or taken together, the Court should deny this motion so that we can get to the merits of our $1.7 billion claims against Citco Group Limited.

With respect to Citco Group Limited, the question is can an entity control, manage, and operate through other entities and benefit therefrom but then when a party seeks redress for harm allegedly caused by that group of entities can Citco Group, like the three wise monkeys, cover their eyes, ears, and mouths and see nothing, hear nothing, and say nothing.

In fact, you heard already, Your Honor, from counsel, oh, we barely exist. We don't do anything. We don't have operations. You'll see that's not quite true, Your Honor, when I get to the evidence. But that's ridiculous on its face. Common sense dictates that that can't be the case. Citco Group Limited can't now hide from its years of involvement with Fairfield and Madoff.

This Court has personal jurisdiction over Citco Limited, as I said, on two bases. First, because its subsidiaries acted as its agent. And if there is personal jurisdiction over those subsidiaries, which I think I've demonstrated, then there is personal jurisdiction over the parent. Second, there is personal jurisdiction over Citco Group Limited because of its own direct conduct.

I would like to review a few key facts which are supported by the evidence we've put in the record, and it's described in our papers. It's voluminous, Your Honor. I couldn't do it in the time allotted, but I'll try and focus on the highlights, but I urge you to go back and take another look at our opposition where it's all laid out. And we filed two separate oppositions, Your Honor, much like my argument today. One with respect to the redemption defendants, if you will, and a separate opposition with respect to Citco Group Limited.

Your Honor, the Citco Group subsidiaries constituted different divisions operated as an integrated company ultimately controlled by Citco Group through the Citco Group Executive Committee. It's at Exhibit 17, Your Honor, where it says, quote, the Executive Committee -- and that's (indiscernible) Citco Group, "The Executive Committee is responsible for the daily management of the Citco Group of companies." And further noting, "Citco banking division directors". You can also see that at Exhibit 22 and Exhibit 23 and 20.

In its own audit reports, the Citco Group describes itself as a "organization of financial service providers comprised of international banks, trust and fund companies". Exhibit 17. The same audit report also states,

"The Citco Group executive committee is responsible for the daily management of the Citco Group of companies." I want to make that clear. That's Exhibit 17 at Citco Redeemer 00810062.

That same exhibit, "The members of the executive committee", that's referring to the Citco Group executive committee, "together with division directors form the management team of the Citco Group of companies." They're saying the executive committee is the management team of the group of companies. This management structure was confirmed by multiple Citco witnesses in their deposition, Exhibits 21 and 20.

The members of the Citco Group executive committee from approximately 2003 to 2008 included a Mr. Smeets, S-M-E-E-T-S, as CEO of Citco Group and Ermanno Unternaehrer --my apologies for pronunciation. That's supported in Exhibit 20 and Exhibit 21. Mr. Smeets and Mr. Unternaehrer. You'll see why that becomes important.

The Citco Group Executive Committee appointed directors to oversee the operations of each of the divisions, including the Citco Fund Services Division and the Citco Banking Division, which included Citco Bank Curacao and Citco Bank Netherlands. And these directors acted on behalf of and reported directly to the Citco Group executive committee. That's at Exhibit 24, stating that the division manager's report to the Citco Group Executive Committee, also at Exhibit 22, stating that the Citco Fund Services Division companies report to Mr. Keunen in his capacity as the director of Citco Fund Services Division, and he reports to the Citco Group Executive Committee. Again, Exhibits 20, 21, 24. Mr. Smeets, CEO of Citco Group, testified at deposition that the Citco Group board of directors was responsible for the strategic management of the business of the Citco companies and for evaluating and issuing policies and overall control and oversight of the Citco companies. Exhibit 23. The critical audit function across all the Citco companies was led and controlled at Citco Group Limited. Mr. Smeets, CEO of Citco Group Limited, testified, "There is an internal auditor in the Citco Group Limited who leads the internal audit groups at the various divisions and companies." That person by the way, Your Honor, as he notes, was Mr. Bodewes, B-O-D-E-W-E-S. And that's at Mr. Smeets' deposition, which is at Exhibit 23, at Page 24 Lines 10 through 23. Citco Group Limited itself participated in New York indirect meetings relating to Madoff. In fact, Mr. Smeets, CEO of Citco Group Limited, directed personnel, including personnel based in New York, to meet with Madoff. That's evidenced at Exhibit 29 and also Mr. Smeets'

Page 44 1 deposition at Exhibit 23, Pages 116, Line 10 through 23, 2 Page 117, Line 5, and Page 324, Lines 9 through 14. 3 In the spring of 2001, Mr. Meijer, M-E-I-J-E-R, who was head of internal audit for Citco Fund Services, 4 5 emailed Mr. Bodewes, B-O-D-E-W-E-S, at Citco Group Limited 6 to address the lack of verification of Citco Global 7 Custody's position with BLMIS. That's Exhibit 32. 8 Following that meeting, in January of 2002, Mr. 9 Meijer continued to express concerns to Citco Group Limited, including the need for a legal contingency plan in the event 10 11 that BLMIS turned into a "financial disaster". 12 Exhibit 33. 13 For example -- and I'm almost done, Your Honor. 14 And there's a lot more in the record. But I wanted to make 15 sure I put forth enough directly in the record today to make 16 my case. 17 For example, in September 2004, Mr. Unternaehrer, a Citco Group Limited director and a Citco Group executive 18 19 committee member, attended a meeting in New York with Mr. Keunen and Mr. Boele, B-O-E-L-E, of Fairfiled's manager, 20 21 FGG. That's at Exhibits 37, also 38 and 20. 22 Following that meeting, Mr. Unternaehrer sent a 23 report to the Citco Group Executive Committee as well as 24 other management team members in dictating Citco Group's concern with the Madoff funds. That's Exhibit 37 again.

Your Honor, I know one of the arguments I heard this morning was, well, those people wear different hats.

And I think they actually talked about Mr. Unternaehrer, I may be wrong, and they said, well, he was somehow an employee of Funds Services. So, yes, he may have been a director and on the executive committee of Citco Group Limited, but whatever he was doing in New York, he must have shut off his Citco Group Limited brain and he was only acting for Funds Services.

Your Honor, that's contradicted directly because in Mr. Unternaehrer's deposition, Exhibit 20 at 83:17 through 84, he said that he had no obligations or duties with regard to Citco Fund Services, he was never involved with day-to-day operation with Citco Fund Services, and he had no responsibility or oversight of the administration of Citco Fund Services.

So again, Your Honor, I think we've demonstrated numerous times we have a Citco Group Limited director, executive committee members involved in the minutiae, if you will, of the Madoff investment and everything that Citco was doing up and down the chain.

Your Honor, the foregoing as well as the many other facts supported by the evidence in the record before the Court demonstrates Citco Group Limited's direct involvement with Fairfield and Madoff. It is inconceivable

Page 46 1 that Citco Group Limited can believe that it's contacts with 2 Madoff and New York were random, fortuitous, and attenuated such that it should have to face the music in New York. But 3 even if you don't agree, Your Honor, there is no question 4 5 that the subsidiary Citco entities were acting for the 6 benefit of and with the knowledge and consent of the 7 principal, Citco Group Limited and over which Citco Group 8 Limited clearly exercised some control. 9 In fact, it looks like these entities acted at the 10 direction of Citco Group Limited from the record I 11 described. 12 Your Honor, for all of the foregoing reasons, 13 whether it's based on Citco Group Limited's direct contacts 14 with Madoff and New York, or whether it's based on a finding 15 that its many subsidiaries, who I think we've overwhelmingly 16 demonstrated we have personal jurisdiction over, whether 17 it's based on imputation or its subsidiaries as agents, either way, Your Honor, Citco Group Limited's motion to 18 19 dismiss should be denied. Thank you, Your Honor. 20 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. 21 MR. LAUFER: May I, Your Honor? 22 THE COURT: Yes, please. 23 Thank you, Judge. Again, Greg Laufer MR. LAUFER: 24 from Paul Weiss for the Citco defendants. 25 As I said earlier, we will stand on our papers with respect to the Citco banking and custody entities. But for the reasons I described earlier, we won't be making those arguments at oral argument right now.

The recitation we just heard was very interesting, but I'm not sure what it has to do with the Citco Group. In the very beginning of my friend's remarks, he said that he was going to show you evidence of U.S. correspondent banks and New York choice of law agreements and due diligence that was conducted in the U.S. There is absolutely no evidence and I don't even think an allegation that Citco Group had any U.S. correspondent bank, that Citco Group entered into any agreements relevant to this case that had any choice of law provisions directing litigation either in New York or elsewhere and that Citco Group entered into any agreements at all or that Citco Group itself conducted any due diligence with respect to the Fairfield funds and/or Madoff.

I also want to point out that the liquidators had ample opportunity to conduct jurisdictional discovery. They are very competent, capable lawyers with resources at their disposal. And instead of doing that, they have given you mischaracterized snippets of a couple of emails and some testimony from depositions taken years ago in a different matter. But since they raised it specifically, I did raise those emails earlier, so let me address them head-on.

They say that a May 2000 Madoff diligence meeting was "orchestrated by the CEO" of the Citco Group, Mr.

Smeets, who credited another individual, Mr. VanZanten, to go to New York to meet with Madoff, and the meeting directly related to the fund investments. And they cite to Exhibit 29. Actually if you look at Exhibit 23, Mr. Smeets clarified that Mr. VanZanten was acting for Citco Fund Services. Again, that was the hedge fund administration operating subsidiary. And the testimony there is very clear on its face at Pages 116, Line 17 to Page 117, Line 5.

The liquidators also say that Citco Group was directly involved in the December 2002 meeting because in their view Mr. Van Nijen, that's another Citco person, he sent a report -- he was not a Citco Group person, by the way. But he sent a report to another individual, Mr. Bodewes, at Citco Group, and that Mr. Bodewes then circulated that report to the Citco Group Executive Committee and that Mr. Smeets testified again in an unrelated action that the objective of the meeting was -- included communications and concerns to Madoff about the existence of the fund's assets.

Actually, Mr. Van Nijen was a member of Citco Fund Services' audit department, as I think we just heard confirmation of. He was not an employee of the Citco Group and his direct report, Mr. Meijer, who we also just heard about, also was not a Citco Group employee and wasn't acting at its direction. And in fact, they also concede that it was Citco Fund Services, not Citco Group, that sent Mr. Van Nijen to meet with Madoff representatives.

The liquidators also point to a May 2006 diligence meeting when a Citco Fund Services managing director, William Keunen, who we also just heard about, reported his findings to the executive committee at the Citco Group and he sought approval of the committee about next steps.

Mr. Keunen, as I just said, was a Citco Fund Services director. He was not a Citco Group director or employee and the liquidator's own description of that meeting from May 2006 specifically notes that it relates to custodial services that were being provided by Citco Fund Services. That has nothing to do with this case. And then finally they argue that in September of 2004, the executive committee at Citco Group, Mr. Unternaehrer, on its behalf went to New York to meet with Fairfield about the feeder funds and the supposed concerns about Madoff. But Mr. Unternaehrer was not a -- and they also say, sorry, that Mr. Unternaehrer was not a CFS, that's Citco Fund Services, employee and had no obligations or duties to that entity except in his capacity as a member of the Citco Group Executive Committee. That's actually untrue, as we explained in our reply at Page 17. The meeting at issue from September of 2004 concerned discussions between Citco Fund Services, Citco Bank Nederland, and Fairfield, not the Citco Group. And it's main purpose, this is a quote, was to "take away possible liabilities while maintaining Citco Fund Services' business", confirming that Mr. Unternaehrer was there in his capacity as a representative of Citco Fund Services. And my friend can poke fun at the dual-habit nature of executives, but that happens all the time in the United States and elsewhere, and there is caselaw to that effect that we've cited, including for the United States Supreme Court that, again, my friend on the other side did not try to challenge.

Let me make just one more point. I think that there was a suggestion that somehow it would be ridiculous or absurd for a parent company or a holding company to cloak itself in a personal jurisdiction argument or hide from the United States, or whatever the characterization was.
There's nothing absurd or ridiculous about what is being described there and there's nothing nefarious about it.
Holding companies based abroad and parent companies based abroad, just like holding companies and parent companies in the United States that have operating subsidiaries abroad, frequently act and structure themselves in that way. And if what the liquidators are saying is true, the mere fact that there's a holding company with an executive committee that ultimately has indirect control over what could be hundreds of subsidiaries around the globe, that would essentially mean that any holding company or any parent company is subject to this country's jurisdiction or this Court's jurisdiction any time it has any subsidiary, no matter what it's doing, that has some nexus in the state or in this country. That is obviously not the law. They haven't cited a single case to that effect.

And as I said, they had an opportunity to take jurisdictional discovery. And we heard lots of salacious references to emails and testimony from other matters about Citco's alleged conduct. The fact of the matter is the liquidators had a burden of demonstrating a principal agency relationship and control with respect to the issues in this case and/or they had an obligation to show evidence or to go out and find the evidence and then bring it to this Court's attention showing that the activities of any Citco operating subs that had activities here that are relevant to this case could actually factually and legally be imputed to Citco Group. They didn't do so. That was their choice. They are now stuck with it.

Citco Group is not subject to this Court's personal jurisdiction and it should be dismissed from this case. Thank you, Judge.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. JONAS: Briefly if I may, Your Honor. Jeff

Jonas from Brown Rudnik for the liquidators, Your Honor.

Your Honor, let's think about why we are here today. I certainly appreciate arguments. They love the knockout punch. It's a $1.7 billion of claims. They love to never have to face the music at all. And I think those are what most of the arguments go to, that we haven't proven our case of principal agency, et cetera. It's not a burden. Today our burden is to show prima facie case with respect to personal jurisdiction. I think we've done that. I think we've done it overwhelmingly.

You know, maybe we've not yet proven an actual principal agency relationship that's ultimately going to mean they are liable for $1.7 billion of claims. We think we'll be able to do that someday, Your Honor. That's why we want to get to the merits. But I don't think we have to prove that today. I think we've demonstrated more than enough on this record for the motion to dismiss to be denied.

And, Your Honor, one of my favorite -- I don't remember the name of the cases I stand on. I think it was a Posner decision. It's an old bankruptcy court case I cite many, many times. Something to the effect of that when a judge in his gut knows something doesn't smell right, I think it was in relation to bad faith, then the judge should make a finding of bad faith. I'm not suggesting bad faith here, Your Honor. But what I am suggesting is and when I say it's ridiculous, listen to the arguments. dancing on the head of the pin. Oh yeah, the Citco Group Limited guy was there, but he was there wearing a different He reported back up to the executive committee, but it was from some other entity. It -- to me that's ridiculous, Your Honor. I think the record is replete that Citco Group Limited was involved in the intricacies of the Madoff and Fairfield relationships. They say they don't even really exist because they don't operate. We've shown numerous -the CEO, numerous employees, numerous executive directors, executive committee members. They're all over this. To me, Your Honor, that's proving the prima facie case on their direct involvement, their direct involvement, never mind the agency relationship. And again, it's twofold, Your Honor. I think we've met both.

Real quickly, Your Honor, I just realized I did not respond to one of the arguments. I want to make sure I just put it to bed. The complaint group pleading argument. I didn't spend much time on it because I don't think it's worthy of it. But I would just say, Your Honor, we cite to Vasquez v. H.K. & Shanghai Banking Corp., 477 F. Supp. 3d 241 (S.D.N.Y. 2020). This case is in a very different posture. We're not limited to the allegations in the complaint when we do -- when there has been jurisdictional

Thank you, Your Honor. 7 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. 8 Okay. Which matter are we proceeding to next? 9 MR. LAUFER: Thank you, Judge. 10 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. 11 MR. LAUFER: May we... 12 THE COURT: Yes, please. Are we going in the 13 order of the agenda? 14 MR. JONAS: Yes, Your Honor. I'm a little 15 outnumbered today, but I'll do the best I can. 16 THE COURT: No problem. 17 MR. LAMBERT: Shall I proceed? 18 THE COURT: Please, good morning. 19 MR. LAMBERT: Good morning again, Your Honor. Michael Lambert of Gilmartin Poster & Shafto LLP for 20 21 defendant, Private Space Limited in Adversary Proceeding 10-22 03630. 23 My client, Private Space, has moved to dismiss for 24 lack of personal jurisdiction. Private Space was a 25 beneficial shareholder with the two BVI funds, Sentry and

Sigma, and itself was also a BVI corporation. Its shares were registered in the name of PSL's co-defendant, HSBC

Security Services Luxembourg S.A., which I will refer to as HSSL pursuant to a custodian agreement between Private Space and HSSL. Under that agreement, which is in the record as Exhibit 6 to the Moulton Declaration submitted by liquidators. In opposition to Private Space's motion, that's Docket 327, HSSL acted on investments and redemption directions from Private Space including Private Space's 2007 instructions to HSSL to redeem its positions in both Sentry and Sigma.

engaged to and never did provide any investment advice to Private Space. It played no role whatsoever in Private Space's decision-making processes. The evidence in that regard is undisputed. See in particular Private Space's sworn answers to the liquidator's interrogatories 7 and 12, which are attached as Exhibit 1 to the reply declaration of Lucio Bergamasco, which is Docket 338.

Those interrogatory answers are fully corroborated by the (indiscernible) Quintus declaration submitted by HSSL in support of its own motion to dismiss. That's Docket 281.

In a memorandum opinion and order dated January 29th of this year, Docket 349, Your Honor has already ruled that HSSL is subject to personal jurisdiction and denied

HSSL's motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction.

Nevertheless, Private Space's own motion to dismiss should I respectfully submit be treated differently and be granted. And the reasons are as follows.

One, Private Space has never had any U.S. contacts and presence such as a place of business, telephone listing, or bank account. Assertions to that effect in the original 2021 declaration of Lucio Bergamasco in support of Private Space's motion to dismiss, that's Docket 203, are completely unrebutted and unchallenged by the liquidators despite two years of expensive and voluminous jurisdictional discovery.

Two, evidence in the record show that Private

Space's contacts with Fairfield were with Fairfield representatives whose business cards show addresses located outside the United States, namely London, Switzerland, and Bermuda. The reference there is again to the reply

Bergamasco declaration, Exhibits 2 to 5 and Paragraphs 6 to 10. That evidence also is unrebutted by the liquidators.

Third, evidence in the record also shows that

Private Space had no meetings with any Fairfield representatives in the United States. All such meetings were at locations in Europe. The reference there is Bergamasco Reply Declaration, Paragraphs 7 and 12. That evidence of no New York meetings or U.S. meetings is again also not in dispute.

Fourth, evidence in the record also shows that most emails sent to Private Space or its Monaco-based investment advisory firm, Fedesa, from Fairfield representatives were sent from the U.K. or Switzerland.

While there is evidence in the record that Private Space did receive some Fairfield emails from an FGG.us account, those emails all clearly came from a Fairfield representative, that's Yanko Della Schiava, who was based in Switzerland.

Fifth, Private Space not only never met with Madoff of BLMIS in the United States as set forth in the original Bergamasco declaration from 2021, but also never communicated at all with Madoff or any other BLMIS representative. Private Space's sworn answer to the Liquidator's Interrogatory 13 to that effect is also undisputed. That's Exhibit 1 to the reply Bergamasco declaration.

Now, it would appear that HSSL or affiliates of HSSL did have meetings with Madoff representatives in the United States, contacts that Your Honor cites to in the decision denying HSSL's motion to dismiss. I am referring specifically to Pages 25 and 26 of the slip opinion, Docket 349.

As I've already noted, however, under its custodian agreement with Private Space, HSSL's role was a purely ministerial one that was limited to acting on Private Space's instructions. And again, it is undisputed that HSSL never gave any investment advice to Private Space such as warning Private Space about any perceived problems with the Madoff operation based on whatever Madoff or BLMIS due diligence HSBC entities might have done while acting in other capacities.

Under basic principles of agency law discussed on Pages 12 to 15 of Private Space's reply brief in support of the motion, Docket 337, therefore any such contacts between HSBC entities and BLMIS in New York cannot be attributable to Private Space in order to establish jurisdiction over Private Space as they were not within the scope of HSSL's very limited agency as Private Space's custodian.

Based on Mr. Jonas' account in his previous argument involving the Citco defendants about what it takes to establish an agency for jurisdictional purposes, i.e. the benefit, the knowledge, and the control test, it would appear that the liquidators agree.

In addition, there is zero evidence in the record that Private Space ever knew about those contacts. I'm talking about the contacts that HSBC representatives had with Madoff in New York and that those contacts were undertaken for the benefit of and/or with the consent of private space, that private space had any semblance of control over those contacts, or that HSSL ever passed on to Private Space any information or concerns about BLMIS generated by those contacts.

In fact, there are not even any allegations in the fourth-amended complaint, which is Docket 167, of any actual knowledge by Private Space of the Madoff fraud or that HSSL ever conveyed any such knowledge or concerns to Private Space or that Private Space had any knowledge of or anything to do with any BLMIS due diligence that any HSBC entity conducted in New York.

The only allegations in the fourth-amended complaint concerning Private Space's knowledge of the Madoff fraud are in Paragraphs 130 to 136. Those allegations, however, are generalized, conclusory group pleading ones that solely because HSSL subscribed to shares in the funds on behalf of beneficial shareholders, whatever knowledge HSSL allegedly had about BLMIS, knowledge that I am going to point out is alleged in minute detail in Paragraphs 54 to 129 of the fourth amended complaint, is attributable to the beneficial shareholders for whom HSSL was acting.

The key paragraph is Paragraph 132 of the fourth amended complaint, which reads as follows. "The beneficial shareholders had the same knowledge as HSSL regarding all relevant matters relating to BLMIS and the fund's net asset values at all relevant times." That's it.

And as I've already demonstrated, however, there is no factual or legal basis for any such attribution given the very limited execution-only scope of HSSL's agency. For the reasons set forth at Pages 12 to 15 of Private Space's reply brief therefore, none of the alleged activities by HSBC entities regarding BLMIS in New York were carried out as Private Space's agent or in any way attributable to Private Space and do not provide a basis for subjecting Private Space to personal jurisdiction.

I would like to turn now briefly to the issue involving the use of a U.S. correspondent bank.

First, Private Space itself never had a U.S. bank account of any type. That's undisputed. The funds used by Private Space to make its investments in Fairfield came either from an account at Citco Bank Nederland in Ireland or a client account that HSSL had set up in HSBC Bank PLC in London using funds from an account that Private Space had set up in Luxembourg. The reference there is to Reply Bergamasco Declaration Paragraph 13.

With respect to Private Space's investments in Sigma, it is conceded that no use bank was used at all with respect to those investments or subsequent redemption.

As for Sentry, Private Space made a total of five investments and received one redemption in transactions in which funds were momentarily routed through a U.S.

correspondent bank. As to that one redemption, Fairfield made the payment from a bank in Ireland. The fourth amended complaint says that the redemption payment was made to HSBC Bank PLC in London, Exhibit A to the fourth amended complaint.

The U.S. correspondent bank through which the payment was routed was chosen by HSBC Bank PLC London, which itself was chosen by HSSL. And that was a correspondent bank not of HSSL or Private Space, but of HSBC Bank PLC London.

The incidental clearing of U.S. Dollar payments through a New York correspondent account on six occasions over a roughly three-and-a-half year period -- that's five investments in Sentry plus the one redemption -- is not I submit a jurisdictionally relevant contact because the principal wrong was not the use of the U.S. banking system as it was in the Licci cases which involved in the words of the Second Circuit, "The unlawful provision of banking services to fund Hezbollah's terrorist goals." That's 732 F.3d 171, which resulted in the rocket attacks which injured the Licci Plaintiffs or their family members. Or, as it was in the Spetner case where the transfers via a U.S. correspondent bank funded terrorist attacks by Hamas in Israel that injured the plaintiffs in that case.

Here by marked contrast once the conclusory allegations of imputed knowledge are removed from the equation as they must be given the undisputed, extremely limited scope of HSSL's agency for Private Space, the fourth amended complaint is completely devoid of any factual allegations of any actual wrongdoing at all on the part of Private Space in connection with the incidental use of U.S. correspondent bank by its custodian to facilitate the transfer of funds from one foreign bank to another.

albeit less attractive routing not involving U.S.

correspondent bank -- I'm talking here about the proposition put forward by the liquidator's expert, Sarah Joyce, is I submit further proof that electing to use the option of a U.S. correspondent bank to facilitate the transfer of funds from one foreign bank to another simply cannot be the principal wrong as it was in Licci. That's also confirmed by the fact that the liquidators are also seeking to claw back Private Space's Sigma redemption payment which did not involve the use of the U.S. correspondent bank at all.

One last point, Your Honor. The liquidators contend that exercising jurisdiction is reasonable because Private Space has been litigating here for ten-plus years.

That that is a classic bootstrap argument that should be given no credence. Private Space was sued here and had no choice but to defend itself. And to that end, Private Space originally moved to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction at the very first opportunity it had to do so. And that was in 2017, Dockets 48 and 49 and 61 and 62.

For all of these reasons and the reasons set forth in Private Space's moving and reply papers therefore I respectfully submit that Private Space's motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction should be granted. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. JONAS: Your Honor, Jeff Jonas from Brown Rudnik for the liquidators. This will be brief, Your Honor.

Private Space acknowledges that it used HSBC

Securities Services Luxembourg SA -- you can call it HSSL or

HSBC Lux, I'll use HSBC Lux because that's what you used in your opinion, Your Honor -- as its custodian and agent for purposes of its investment in Fairfield. HSBC Lux subscribed for Fairfield Fund shares on behalf of Private Space as the beneficial owner.

Accordingly, the $17 million of redemption payments at issue here is subsumed within the larger amount which liquidators seek from HSBC Lux. As the Court is aware, HSBC Lux filed its own motion to dismissed based on lack of personal jurisdiction and the Court issued its memorandum opinion and order denying that motion on January

29th, 2004 including based on purposeful availment, use of U.S. correspondent bank accounts, et cetera.

While there are additional relevant facts supportive of the liquidator's position here, which I will get to, at the outset because the Court has already considered the facts and law relevant to HSBC Lux and found personal jurisdiction, if the Court now agrees with the liquidators that HSBC Lux conduct can be imputed to Private Space, which they oppose, there is little more that needs to be done here. Private Space's motion should be denied.

I won't again recite the relevant law regarding agency or imputation because fortunately for us, Your Honor, Private Space has already acknowledged and conceded everything needed for the Court to impute HSBC Lux conduct to Private Space. Beginning at Page 12 of its reply memorandum, Private Space states, and I'll quote, "PSL of course takes no issue with the notion that HSSL acted as its agent when it carried out Sentry and Sigma subscription and redemption instructions from PSL and arranged for the related payments and that it, PSL, was aware of and consented to those activities. Thus, the resulting subscriptions and redemptions are binding on PSL as the beneficial owner or principal on whose behalf HSSL was acting." Those are their words, Your Honor. Not mine.

Private Space makes a tortured attempt to argue that because the cope of the agency was somehow limited to "ministerial actions" that HSL's actions can't be imputed.

That's nonsense, Your Honor.

What this defendant and many of the other defendant today would say is this, just to put it in a clear example, that a sophisticated foreign financial investor or institution can hire another entity to act as ISA agent, even they say agent, so I'll say agent. But if you don't want to say agent, let's say recordholder, so that it can knowingly, which I'll get to, knowingly invest in New York-based Madoff and take advantage of the U.S. securities markets. But if there's wrongdoing, it's not subject to New York jurisdiction. That cannot be the law, Your Honor.

But let me come back. There are additional facts which we don't even need the agency, which I think is a slam dunk. The additional facts are as follows. Private Space independently investigated the funds as potential investments, Exhibits 22 and 23. Private Space directly received diligence from the fund's manager, FGG, including information and documentation indicating that the fund substantially invested in BLMIS. Same exhibits.

Private Space directly received PPMs which, as we've seen many times highlighted the fund's investment in BLMIS. That's Exhibit 1, which is a Sentry PPM, and Exhibit 24, which is a Sigma PPM and the transmittal email.

And last, Your Honor, Exhibit 9 is evidence of the Pg 66 of 185 Page 66 redemption payments flowing through Private Space's agent's correspondent bank account at HBUS. Accordingly, Your Honor, Private Space independently and directly knew its investment was into New York-based BLMIS. It desired to invest and through Fairfield knowingly invested in the U.S. securities markets. And on that basis, Your Honor, Private Space's motion to dismiss should be denied. Thank you. THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. MR. LAMBERT: Briefly, Your Honor? THE COURT: Please. MR. LAMBERT: Michael Lambert for defendant, Private Space. Private Space of course stands by what it said in its reply brief with respect to the -- it's the agency relationship it had with HSSL. There is no question that the actions that it took on our behalf by subscribing to the funds bind Private Space. What my argument is, however, is that that was a very limited agent. And when HSBC and HSSL and other related entities were meeting with Madoff in New York, meetings which Your Honor referenced in your decision that denied HSSL's motion to dismiss, that those meetings had nothing to do with its agency for Private Space and therefore cannot be attributed to Private Space.

Private Space itself never had any meetings with Madoff in New York, never had any meetings with Fairfield in New York. And it was a very limited agency. We cite the caselaw. The caselaw is black letter law. And agency -- you're only an agent to the extent that the agent is acting within the -- the acts of an agent only bind the principal to the extent that the agent's acts were in the scope of his agency. And my argument was simply that whatever meetings HSSL had in other capacities in New York with Madoff are not binding on PSL because they were clearly not within the scope of its agency for Private Space. They were not undertaken with the consent, knowledge, or to benefit Private Space. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. JONAS: Your Honor, Jeff Jonas for the liquidators. I will accept -- for purposes of argument right now I'll accept everything Mr. Lambert said. And I'll say this. What we know for sure, because what they absolutely admit is -- and I'll accept it for purposes of this argument right now -- all we -- the authorization of our agency was go subscribe and ultimately redeem -- go subscribe to that fund for us. And that's exactly what they did. And they signed a subscription agreement that acknowledged they looked at a PPM that said that this was an investment -- we've been through this many, many times -- this is an investment in Madoff. All of this or

Page 68 1 substantially all of this money is going to Madoff. 2 So now he's saying, well, yeah, they were our agent for purposes of the subscription and yeah, they knew 3 4 they were investing in Madoff, but there's a block there. 5 We're not charged with the subscription which we authorized 6 them to sign? It doesn't make any sense, Your Honor. And 7 never mind the additional facts I've put forth indicating 8 their direct, if you will, contacts that I think in and of 9 themselves would be enough to have them required to submit 10 to jurisdiction. 11 Thank you, Your Honor. 12 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. 13 MR. LAMBERT: Your Honor, just very briefly. It's 14 not my contention that we're not bound by the subscription -15 16 THE COURT: Identify yourself for the record, 17 please. 18 MR. LAMBERT: I'm sorry? Oh. 19 THE COURT: Identify yourself for the record. 20 MR. LAMBERT: Sorry. Michael Lambert for Private 21 Space. 22 It is not our contention that we're not bound by 23 the subscription agreements that HSL signed on our behalf. 24 Thank you, Counsel. 22	THE COURT: Good morning.
23	MR. WEIDNER: Good morning. So as with the other
24	partis, I don't want to retread old ground that Your Honor
25	has already covered in your prior decisions. But the parties did spend a fair amount of time this morning touching on an issue that we had raised in our UBS Lux briefing and we've raised again here. And it's an issue that Your Honor did not address in the opinion.

We've heard the parties speak at length about agency relationships and parent-subsidiary relationships and when contacts can be imputed. We've heard about agency relationships, alter egos, and departments. And I just sort of want to clarify here that the fund are not UBS's agent. It is alleged that Citco is UBS's agent, and it is alleged that Citco was also the fund's -- it was Sentry's agent. But there's no allegation that Sentry was UBS's agent. And I think that's a key insight that we've been trying to sort of get across through our briefing, which is why the absence of that relationship is why you cannot impute the contacts of Sentry and its own investment in BLMIS to UBS in the first instance. That's why Sentry's investments are its own investments and not UBS's investments and the fact that UBS knew that those investments, its investments in a separate entity in Sentry or Lambda would ultimately end up in New York does not change that dynamic. It also explains why the 2023 Southern District opinion that Mr. Jonas cited was incorrect. And if this were the law, if this were the case, then it would eviscerate the parent-subsidiary caselaw and agency caselaw that we've heard about at length this

Now, Mr. Jonas has also said, despite discussing all this caselaw at length, that it actually cannot be the case, that this cannot be the law. But it really dovetails exactly with jurisdictional first principles. The Supreme Court has made clear that jurisdictional caselaw is about clear notice and fair notice and that parties should be able to structure their affairs in such a way to avoid being subject to jurisdiction in any given state or in the United States in general. And when you look at the structure here, that is exactly I would submit what the parties have done, particularly for the foreign currency funds for Sigma and Lambda where we're talking about UBS, a foreign bank, investing a foreign currency in a foreign entity that invests in another foreign entity that ultimately invests in New York. And so quite to the contrary that it cannot be the law, I think the law is quite clear on this, that the contacts of Sentry cannot be imputed to UBS.

And so with those out of the way, then you're just left with what the liquidators have alleged are UBS's own contacts with the forum. And I think a key piece here is something that we've argued and now the liquidators have conceded in their response to a summary judgement motion that was filed the Tab 3636 case, which is that each redemption in this case is its own claim. And the fact that each redemption is its own claim is significant in at least two respects.

And so the first relates to the meetings and emails that the liquidators have put before Your Honor. It's incumbent upon the liquidators to show that these redemptions at issue here -- and again, each redemption is its own claim -- that each individual redemption arises out of or relates to these meetings or these communications. And the liquidators have not shown that these meetings, that these individual redemption arise out of or relate to those meetings, for example. And in some ways it's very clearcut. If a meeting was in 2008, a claim based on a redemption that occurred in 2006 or 2007 necessarily does not arise out of or relate to a meeting that did not occur until several years later. And so again, I think with respect to the meetings and the communications which Your Honor has focused on, the liquidators have not shown that the individual redemptions arise out of or relate to them. And so those meetings and contacts are not jurisdictionally relevant with respect to a given claim or a given redemption.

Second, Your Honor has also cited the fact and has cited to Licci and Spetner for the notion that repeated uses of correspondent accounts in the United States can give rise to jurisdiction when the harm is perpetrated through those correspondent account uses. But by definition if each redemption is a separate claim, we're not talking about repeated uses of the wires, we're talking about single uses of the words. And with respect to those single uses, I would just add parenthetically that in a number of instances the amount of money we're talking about was quite small.

There were some redemptions in the neighborhood of $1,000, $2,000, $3,000. And so that's what we're talking about when we're also thinking about the reasonableness inquiry here as well.

And just a final quick third point on this. The liquidators allege that the redemptions at issue here went from foreign bank accounts to foreign bank accounts. They went from Sentry's account with Citco Dublin branch to foreign brokerage and custody accounts abroad. And in fact when you look at the evidence that they've put before the Court, it confirms that that's the case, that the redemptions at issue here for hundreds of the redemptions we're talking about went from foreign Sentry accounts to foreign brokerage and custody accounts where, according to the liquidator's own allegations, UBS was required to have an account.

And so I think when you sum all of this up, the fact that the communications and the meetings, the liquidators have not shown that these redemptions arise out of or relate to those communications or meetings, the fact that we're talking about a single use with respect to any given claim, and the fact that the redemptions in many instances are not alleged to have and the evidence seems to confirm did not pass through the United States. That when you sum all of that up, those distinctions merit a different outcome here than with respect to the UBS Lux opinion that Your Honor previously decided. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. JONAS: Jeff Jonas, Brown Rudnik, Your Honor, for the liquidators, the plaintiffs in opposition of the motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction.

I'm a little confused by some of the arguments that were made, Your Honor. Because I think substantially all of them were in fact addressed by the four opinions you issued. We haven't said that Sentry was UBS's agent. In fact, in your -- I think it was the HSBC Securities Services opinion at Page 27, as you said, the relevant contacts were not driven by the conduct of the Fairfield funds alone; they were the result of Defendant's efforts to invest in BLMIS in New York. That's what we're saying. So I don't think I have to respond further than that.

As for each redemption is its own claim, Your Honor, in large part you said the allegations, that is with respect to subscriptions, et cetera, related to Defendant's investment activities, that's the claim they, flow through, they flow through all the redemptions. Once we've proven it at the outset, I think we've proven it. So just to respond to those.

But now let me get to my argument, Your Honor. This is a $108 million redemption claim against UBS AG. I think the starting point and perhaps the ending point of this particular analysis with respect to UBS should be UBS's reply memorandum, Footnote 2, which states, "UBS does not contest that the Citco subscriber's jurisdictional contacts can be imputed to UBS." Citco Global Custody and Citco Banking Corporation, which are -- those are the Citco subscribers -- they acted as UBS's agent in subscribing for Fairfield Fund shares for the benefit of UBS. Thus, despite its many arguments that the Court does not have personal jurisdiction over UBS because of its own contacts, it has acknowledged that all of Citco's jurisdictional contacts, which I reviewed previously and have set forth in our papers, can be imputed to it, which is appropriate under and consistent with relevant law because Citco was retained by UBS as its agent.

I would like to -- so I don't know there's much more to say there, Your Honor. I would like to note that UBS filed a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction in the Madoff Trustee, Mr. Picard's action, which was denied. And in its reply memorandum, Your Honor, consistent with the arguments that were made here, I think all of the arguments that they made there have been dispensed with based on your memorandum opinions. They said in -- this is their preliminary statement.

First, the purported U.S. orientated business activities that the liquidators claim UBS engaged in are jurisdictionally irrelevant. Second, the intent and knowledge test pressed by the liquidators for imputing their own contacts with BLMIS to UBS is contrary to binding precedent. Third, the contacts the liquidators seek to shoehorn into the dispute, subscription-related activities do not relate to their constructive trust claims. Fourth, allegation and evidence about the use of the U.S. correspondent account fall short of the standards set forth in binding precedent. Fifth, exercising jurisdiction over this dispute, which involves numerous foreign parties and centers on the alleged wrongdoing of yet another foreign entity would be unreasonable. I think all of those arguments have been dispensed with and are, frankly, out the window.

In any event, the relevant contacts here are as follows. Because, just as I think I have demonstrated before, even without the agency there is enough.

The same form of PPMs, private placement memoranda, were used with respect to UBS's investments in the funds as we've seen before. That is PPMs referencing Madoff, BLMIS, its split-strike conversion strategy, et cetera, et cetera. They knew they were investing in the U.S. securities markets.

Not only did Citco, UBS's agent, receive these, but UBS received these directly. Those are at Exhibit 10 and 11. UBS sent its subscription monies to Citco's U.S. correspondent account at HSBC on 69 occasions to make more than $24 million in subscription payments. UBS received at least seven redemption payments totaling approximately five-and-a-half million dollars that went through Citco's U.S. correspondent bank account at HSBC. The support for what I've just stated, Your Honor, is Exhibits 46 through 49.

UBS instructed its agent, Citco, to sign many, many subscription agreements governed by no law and which provided for New York as the forum for any related litigation, Exhibits 43 through 54.

UBS itself conducted due diligence and other activities both within and aimed at the United States by requesting fund-offering materials from U.S. entities, meeting with the fund's manager, FGG, three times, at least twice in New York to discuss the funds, and communicating with U.S. and New York-based entities and personnel on several occasions about Sentry's relationship with Madoff and UBS's investment in the funds.

For example, Your Honor, Exhibit 7. It's a 2003 email with the subject line September 24th meeting at UBS New York. Exhibit 8, a 2008 email regarding meeting with FGG in New York. Exhibit 9, another 2008 email regarding meeting with FGG. UBS also engaged in regular and extensive communications with FGG in the United States. For example, August 26th, 2008 email from UBS employees requesting and receiving fund documents from FGG on behalf of a "client who is interested to have exposure to Madoff". There is nothing random, fortuitous, or attenuated about UBS's direct contacts with New York. Moreover, UBS accepts that its agent Citco's many contacts with New York, including use of U.S. correspondent bank accounts, should be imputed to UBS. On that basis, Your Honor, UBS's motion should be denied. Thank you. THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. MR. WEIDNER: Did you address Jersey? I'm sorry. UBS Jersey? Are you going to do that now? (indiscernible). MR. JONAS: (indiscernible). Okay. One minute, Your Honor. I just have a few other points. Thank you. Sorry for the confusion, Your Honor, there. There's two UBS entities. There's AG and Jersey. And I was a little confused, I apologize. With respect to

UBS Jersey Nominees Limited, it's a $4 million redemption,

Your Honor. I won't spend too much time on this, but the relevant facts and law are similar to those relating to UBS AG. And again, UBS Jersey doesn't contest that its agent Citco's jurisdictional contacts can be imputed to UBS Jersey. More particularly, Your Honor, I will be brief, UBS Jersey used Citco as its agent to invest in the funds. UBS itself received copies of subscription agreements. That's Exhibit 3. Citco as UBS Jersey's agent, again, received private placement memorandums. UBS Jersey entered into the same form of brokerage and custody agreement with Citco as UBS AG. UBS's agent entered into at least one long-form subscription agreement governed by New York law provided for New York courts. And again, Your Honor, for all the same reasons, UBS Jersey's motion should be denied. Thank you. THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. MR. WEIDNER: Just a few brief points, Your Honor. THE COURT: Just identify yourself for the record. MR. WEIDNER: Sorry. Chase Weidner for Gibson Dunn on behalf of the UBS AG and UBS Jersey Nominees Limited. You heard Mr. Jonas note that it's a $108 million redemption claim and a $4 million redemption claim. But that ignores again the fact that they themselves have Page 80 conceded that each of these redemptions is a separate claim. And so you can't just sum all of these redemptions up. You can't sum all of these meetings and emails up and just pretend like it's one monolith. Right? They have to show -THE COURT: How do you connect a meeting to a redemption? MR. WEIDNER: How do you connect a meeting... THE COURT: To a redemption. MR. WEIDNER: So for example, so if we were to look at some --THE COURT: Is it just timing? If it was before versus after? MR. WEIDNER: So I think timing would be relevant. But also if we look at the nature of the meetings themselves, you can see. So, for example, one is about I would like you to describe the Sentry platform to an individual who works for UBS, right? And that person will then presumably go and try to get individual investors to give their money to UBS to ultimately give to Sentry. And so if you could tie, for example, that meeting to subsequent investments, then you would be able to show a relationship between the two. You could show that the claims, that the redemptions here arise out of or relate to those meetings. But just a general meeting that occurs in 2003 that says, hey, this one individual from UBS is coming to New York, could you generally educate him on this so he can see if he can go get clients to do something with that information does not show that this specific redemption is at issue here. The hundreds of them across several years arise out of or relate to that specific meeting.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. WEIDNER: And so, again, I think if you look at the meetings on their face, Mr. Jonas went through some of them, you'll see that they're not specific to any redemptions. And of course I would also point out the timing issue, that many of them post-date many of the redemptions at issue here. And I would say the same thing for the emails as well. Right? You would have to have a closer tie than just the fact that it's between UBS and between Sentry in order to show that the specific redemptions here arise out of or relate to them.

Mr. Jonas also noted that there are at least seven redemptions that went through U.S. correspondent accounts. I would just note that they've alleged hundreds of redemptions. And so that seems to concede that in fact hundreds of them did not go through U.S. correspondent accounts with respect to Sentry. I would also again highlight that there is no allegation with respect to Sigma and Lambda that any of the redemptions or subscriptions went through any correspondent accounts in the United States at all.

And then just finally, Your Honor, with regard to Citco's jurisdictional contacts, its' true that we don't dispute that Citco's jurisdictional contacts can be imputed to UBS with the scope of their agency, right? To the extent that they are acting for the benefit of UBS, not Citco's contacts as a whole, right? That's the nature of agency relationships and the nature of how contacts get imputed.

But I also want to clarify that the key point here is there are these tests for agencies and parent subsidiaries and the fact that you need to be an alter ego or department in order to impute contacts from one entity to another entity to sort of bridge across the corporate separateness divide there. And our point is that while Citco was an agent for UBS and separately -- there's a cleaner divide here -- Citco was an agent for Sentry, what Sentry ultimately did cannot bridge that corporate separateness divide in the absence of an agency relationship and alter ego relationship, a department relationship, something like that. All the things we've been discussing today. And that's the reason that Sentry's ultimate investment in Madoff can't be imputed back to UBS, because there's a clean divide there and legal doctrine that we have in these other contacts to divide -- or to bridge that gap.

Page 83 1 Thank you, Your Honor. 2 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. 3 MR. JONAS: Your Honor, Jeff Jonas from Brown 4 Rudnick, for the liquidators. I'll just close with this, 5 Your Honor. Their words, UBS does not contest the Citco 6 subscribers' jurisdictional contacts can be imputed to UBS. 7 Footnote 2 of their reply memorandum. Thank you, Your 8 Honor. THE COURT: Well, they're saying it's within a 9 10 narrow scope I quess. Right? 11 MR. JONAS: How narrow -- let's keep it very 12 They signed a -- they told them go subscribe. 13 Okay. They signed a subscription agreement that ties to a 14 PPM that says this is an investment in Madoff. Is that 15 narrow enough? I don't think it could be any narrower. 16 THE COURT: What do you make of the argument about 17 meetings occurring after the redemption --MR. JONAS: Your Honor, I agree with that, Your 18 19 Honor. And, A, I don't think we even need that, frankly. I 20 think that's kind of down here after we've got jurisdiction 21 on any number of bases. But I will say, Your Honor, that I 22 don't think that's -- and I don't think anybody cited 23 particular cases on this point. But I don't -- to me that 24 does not feel right for a jurisdictional analysis because 25 look at what the true test is. Are the contacts fortuitous, attenuated? Are the contacts such that the party would say, oh my god, how did I end up in New York? That's the basic test. It is a bit of a field test. I don't think as to meetings, correspondence, I don't think when you're looking at that kind of conduct, I don't think you have to tie that particular conduct. It related to their investment. We know that. There was no other reason for them to be there. They talked about their investment and they came into New York. They talked to people in New York. I think all of that demonstrates that it certainly -- context was certainly not attenuated or fortuitous or random such that should have any expectation that they wouldn't be subject to New York jurisdiction.

Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. WEIDNER: Just briefly, Your Honor. We do cite a case for the notion that events that postdate the relevant conduct, that the claims do not arise out of or relate to conduct that occurred long after the thing at issue. So meetings in 2008, claims based on redemptions that occurred before 2008 don't arise out of or relate to meetings in 2008. That's on page 4 of our reply brief.

And then just briefly, I realize Mr. Jonas says that it doesn't feel right that those things should be segregated. But the claims must arise out of or relate to Page 85 1 the contacts themselves. And so regardless of how Mr. Jonas 2 feels, a claim does not arise out of or relate to something 3 that happened well after the whole event occurred. Thank 4 you. 5 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. 6 MR. JONAS: Last, Your Honor, I just want to make 7 sure you're aware it's Exhibit 7. They met in September in New York in 2003. And I think it's somewhat like fruits of 8 a -- everything follows, Your Honor. So thank you. 9 10 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. Shall we proceed 11 to the next matter on the agenda? 12 I think he's virtual, Your Honor. MR. JONAS: 13 THE COURT: Okay. So we covered three and four on 14 the agenda? 15 MR. JONAS: Yes. 16 THE COURT: Yes. So we're up to five? 17 MR. JONAS: Yeah. Thank you, Your Honor. There's 18 five, six, and seven left. 19 Oh you're right. Sorry, Eric. Yeah, we're on 20 yours. Oh, I'm sorry, Number 5. Julius Baer. Sorry about 21 that. And Mr. Gilmore is Altipro, Your Honor. 22 MR. HALPER: Your Honor, may I proceed? 23 THE COURT: Please. 24 MR. HALPER: Thank you. Again, Rick Halper with 25 McKool Smith for Defendant, Bank Julius Baer. We represent

Bank Julius Baer in two actions. Again, it's Adversary

Proceeding 10-3635 and 10-3636. The allegations in those two actions are virtually identical. And for the purposes of these motions, I think we can treat them the same. I think my adversary will likely agree with that. And so for purposes of that, we're going to treat this as one collective.

I did want to start, Your Honor, by -- well, before I do that just as some of my other co-defendants and colleagues have said, we are resting on our papers and relying on our papers for a number of the legal arguments we've made, some of which or many of which you have addressed in some of your prior opinions. You've heard a lot of argument both today and in prior hearing about some of those arguments. And so we adopt the arguments of our co-counsel and from our counsel on the related proceedings from the prior hearing as applicable. And you'll see that that's also borne out in our briefs.

But I'm going to focus on a couple of things that I think distinguish these cases and Julius Baer from some of what you've seen before and ruled on before.

So first let me just start with a high-level look at these actions and why they are different. So these two actions included a multitude of defendants, unlike some of these other actions that are geared towards maybe sort of a set of corporately related defendants or a handful of defendants that were tied together by the underlying transactions and investments that are at issue. Here you've got actions that are against a multitude I think in the 3636 action. It might have been 80-some-odd defendants, something to that tune, all of which are completely independent of each other. There's no connection other than that ultimately we're talking about investments that made their way into Fairfield Sentry and related funds. But other than that, there's no connection between these defendants whatsoever.

The group pleading issue came up, and I want to address that a little bit.

In the complaints here -- and again, unlike some of the actions that I think Your Honor has already ruled upon, there are virtually no jurisdictional elements whatsoever. Not only about Julius Baer, but about any of the defendants. The specific allegations that actually speak to and name and address Julius Baer and then the same for other individual defendants I think are of sum total of two paragraphs. And the paragraphs say, one, they establish Julius Baer is a Swiss bank that's located in Zurich.

Clearly that does not establish jurisdiction in the U.S.

And the other allegation, a much more general one, and we'll get into some of this, is the Citco subscribers as they are referred to in the complaints may have paid some of the redemptions to the benefit or an account of Julius Baer and then other of these individual defendants. That is it.

That is the sum total of the jurisdictional allegations.

I would submit to you, Your Honor, that there never was a proper predicate in this case, unlike some of the others, for the jurisdictional discovery that was allowed. You may say, well, okay, but we've had it and we're going to -- I'm going to address it shortly. But there is no basis and it would be improper and it's an improper use of jurisdictional discovery to allow plaintiffs to through that discovery basically rewrite and/or supplement and amend their complaint. Jurisdictional discovery is granted when you have some jurisdictional allegations, there is a dispute over the factual basis and correctness and accuracy of those allegations. And then you turn to some jurisdictional discovery to determine what is actually correct.

So simple example, you might have an allegation, well, they had a business in the U.S., it was located here. They had bank accounts, they had telephone numbers, they were transacting. Those meetings, even U.S. meetings occurred. That's the basis for jurisdiction. Defendants come along and say that's not correct, we were never in the U.S., you've got the wrong entity, you're describing something different. We contest that. We put in, you know, a declaration that says that's not true, we were never in the U.S. Now maybe there's a cause or a basis to say, okay, well, we've got to get to the bottom of this. Let's have a little jurisdictional discovery and figure out what's the truth. That is not what happened here.

Here there is no jurisdictional allegations, barest bones on the pleadings. They got jurisdictional discovery anyway, and now they want to take that jurisdictional discovery and say, look, here's our case. Here's all the allegations we never included, and we want you to treat them as if they were part of the complaint. And that's just presented in a brief. That's not the way to amend a complaint. That's not a proper use of jurisdictional discovery.

And so in the first instance we think, frankly, all of that should be disregarded and you should rule it on the pleadings. And clearly there's no case for jurisdiction there. That all being said, if we credit and take a look at the jurisdictional discovery that was taken, it doesn't add up even close to what they claim it does. And it's very important that we start then, taking a hopefully fairly brief walk, but a walk nonetheless through the evidence that they are relying on to make their case for why there is jurisdiction over Bank Julius Baer.

So let me start -- and if you look in their brief, it starts with the background. They kind of walk through the story, if you will, Your Honor, about their basis for saying they have jurisdiction over Bank Julius Baer. And then throughout the rest of the brief, they refer back to the very same documents. The only problem is the documents don't really support what they say they support.

So one thing I want to start with, which is actually even before you get to their background section, it's on the very first page of their brief. Liquidators allege that Julius Baer had knowledge of Madoff's fraud. Straightforward. They say we actually had knowledge of the fraud. That is patently false. There's no support for that. And then later in a footnote, I believe it's Footnote 14, the liquidators concede we have no evidence or documents that Julius Baer actually knew about the fraud or knew that the net asset values of Fairfield's funds were inflated. We don't have that discovery. So boldface inaccuracy on the beginning of the brief. Later, a concession that that's not actually the case.

And so I would urge Your Honor both to be looking at the specific exhibits here and their footnotes where they tend to make a lot of the concessions that contradict, flatly contradict some of the bald assertions that they make in the text of their brief.

So they allege that Julius Baer first started subscribing to Fairfield Sentry in 1998. They don't allege anything prior to that date about meetings, knowledge, anything of that nature. But that's when the subscriptions start.

They then say Julius Baer supposedly sought a meeting with Madoff in 1999. And they refer to Exhibit 31. There is an email suggesting that maybe a meeting was trying to be scheduled. But clearly that meeting, which as the documents show didn't actually happen, did not influence or have an impact on a decision to invest which supposedly predated that. So to the extent there was a meeting in the U.S. after the investment started -- and this was a point that was just being discussed in the last argument -- that meeting has no jurisdictionally relevant relevance to establishing contacts or the transactions that are at issue.

They then say, wait, there's more meetings. So they jump five years to 2003. This is Exhibit 33 to their opposition. And they say, okay, there's going to be another meeting. However, when you look at the emails or the email they have that suggests there's a meeting or that they're trying to schedule a meeting at that time with Fairfield, the meeting is -- or as outlined in the email and that exhibit is all about other Fairfield funds. And this is a point that I think gets lost both in these actions and in all of the actions that you've been hearing about from the liquidators, Your Honor, Fairfield Greenwich Group had the Fairfield Sentry fund and Sigma and Lambda, which have obviously been the focus here. They also had a whole series of other funds that have nothing to do with Madoff, a whole other business that they were trying to develop and push and meet with people to get people to invest in those other funds. Because if you step back -- and I don't think this is controversial and it's fairly sort of well-known and sort of public domain -- investments in Sentry was not the thing that Fairfield had to go around and try to sell to people. People knew about that fund, people wanted into that fund. Lots of times they couldn't get into the fund because it was closed off. There was this allure that was created, right, that was going to attract people.

So when you're having these meetings that they point to -- and just show -- there's an email and somebody from Julius Baer is on it and somebody from Fairfield Greenwich Group is on it. That doesn't mean it's a meeting that has anything to do with Fairfield Sentry. And this email -- again, this is Exhibit 28 -- lists all these other funds that Fairfield Greenwich Group is trying to push. Let us tell you about all of these other funds. That's what that meeting was going to be about.

The only other meetings that they point to were -- of these other subsequent meetings were in Switzerland by the way also. So it's not only the topic is not relevant to what's at issue in the complaint, but it's not really a U.S. contact because there's not people meeting in the U.S.

So they point to one in October of 2003. That also appears to not have gone forward. And then they point to another one in 2007. Those aren't U.S. contacts.

They're not linked to the transactions. And Your Honor can take a look at those. Those are at Exhibits 22, 23, and 27.

So that's pretty much where it stops and ends as to meetings. And I would just add one other point that did come up in the last argument and just to supplement what my co-defendant said. There is caselaw that we've cited and other defendants have cited about this issue as to are the meetings connected to the transactions. And if they're not, it's really not relevant for jurisdictional purposes.

So just by way of example, Phoenix Ancient Art, S.A. v. J. Paul Getty, 2018 WL 1605985 *1317, Southern District of New York, meetings in New York that do not result in the execution of contract or are not essential to or do not substantially advance the business relationship rarely provide the basis for jurisdiction pursuant -- and then it goes on.

Holding that -- same case holding that even meetings which rise to the level of transacting business in

New York nonetheless do not establish personal jurisdiction where the plaintiff's claims do not arise out of those contacts. Because there is no substantial nexus between the transaction of business and the cause of action alleged.

And then one more. V Cars, LLC v. Israel Corp., 902 F. Supp. 2d 349, 361-362 (S.D.N.Y. 2012), finding that contacts are not sufficient where the only meetings that occurred in New York were exploratory, nothing was promised, no agreements were negotiated, and the parties merely presented on their business.

So they have no evidence of the specific details of, A, whether these meetings actually occurred, and what the substance beyond the email I pointed you to that talks about other funds, what the substance of this meeting was intended to be or may have been if any of them in fact occurred. But it certainly doesn't meet that standard for being a relevant jurisdictional contact.

So even Mr. Jonas, and I'm sure he'll speak to this again, but said, well, okay -- when this came up before, the meetings, maybe there's a point. That doesn't matter. We've got other stuff. Okay, let's go to the other stuff.

The biggest I think thing that they hang their hook on and to point to knowledge of these defendants and say, look, they knew what they were doing and they deliberately took advantage of using U.S. funds, U.S. investment, U.S. securities, et cetera. And they understood Madoff was involved and he's holding the funds and all of that knowledge. And they point to the private placement memoranda and they say BJB, Bank Julius Baer, received these just like these other folks. And so they're stuck. Right?

That alone probably does it in their mind.

Well, again, let's take a closer look at what they point to. And I point to three exhibits, Exhibit 11, 29, point to. And I point to three exhibits, Exhibit 11, 29, and 30.

So Exhibit 11 is Fairfield Sentry Limited. It's their information memorandum. The copy they have included doesn't have a Bates stamp. It is not a signed version of anything. There is no cover letter, no email, nothing to suggest that this went to Julius Baer, that they had it or even when they had it if they did.

So that one doesn't get us very far because it's just an example of they had these memorandums out there.

But we've got to do more than that to connect it up to Julius Baer.

So they go okay, well, let's go to Exhibits 29 and 30 and that will answer the question, right? We've got a cover email from Fairfield Greenwich Group to somebody at Julius Baer. It's got the Sentry offering memo attached, it's got the Sigma offering memo attached. And so 29 and 30 are actually the same email and the same exhibit. It's just one has one attachment attached and the next one has the second attachment attached.

And it says, "Dear Ms. Beer," Ms. Beer is the Julius Baer representative, "Thank you for your message of today. We appreciate your interest in Fairfield Sentry Limited and Fairfield Sigma. As part of your request, we are pleased to enclose the offering memoranda of both investment funds for your review." Okay, that sounds like somewhere for their benefit. Why am I highlighting this?

Well, let's look at the date. It's July 10th, 2007. That is the only evidence they submit as to when this was received by Julius Baer. So all of those transactions that occur before it, to the extent that they are relying on the information in these memoranda to say, well, Julius Baer knew about this and specifically used that knowledge when they conducted all of those transactions that came before this, there is no nexus here. There is no evidence.

And to my point earlier, they can't have it both ways. Either we are in jurisdictional discovery land and we're going to rely on the specific evidence that they have put forth, or we can go back to the pleadings, which contain none of this and say nothing. But they can't say, well, we've got information memoranda. That's 2007, but that's kind of good enough, we can kind of just assume there was something earlier. That doesn't work.

So next point. What do they turn to next?

Because obviously this is a totality of circumstances kind of exercise, Your Honor. I think you even noted that in your earlier opinions.

So -- well, let me just add one note to the memoranda to just hammer home the point of what their position is. They say in their brief knowing that investing in Sentry would require use of Sentry's U.S. correspondent account as the ultimate destination of the subscription payments. BJB nonetheless chose to invest in Sentry.

That's Page 11 of their opposition brief. And they rely on those exhibits, the 2007 and the undated exhibit.

So if they knew anything based on this evidence, it's not until July of 2007 when we're pretty close to the end of the road here on where these transactions occurred and before the fraud actually got revealed.

So the next piece of evidence that they turn to, they say, okay, well, maybe those are sort of related, but Julius Baer also received tear sheets for Sentry and Sigma. They were getting information about these funds, about the performance, Exhibits 13 and 14.

If you look at 13 and 14 again, they are dated 2007. That's the evidence that they have. That's May 2007. So we've moved up maybe from July, but we're at May 2007.

Then they point to what they say admittedly is an undated FGG, Fairfield Greenwich Group investor presentation. But the email that's attached to that gives us the answer. Maybe that tells us what the date is. This is Exhibit 19. I just want to read you something from that exhibit.

So they say, well, they have these presentations that talked about how Sentry worked and, you know, BLMIS's role in it and so forth. So that is a November -- Exhibit 19, that's a November 6th, 2008 email that that's attached to. So now we're going the other direction, even later. We're literally a month before the fraud is revealed. That's where they point to evidence that says, okay, that's when Julius Baer had some information in hand that it knew how this was working.

And that email further says -- it's something that they didn't sort of point to in their papers. But the email says, amongst some of the other language in here -- this is from someone at Julius Baer saying, "Fairfield Sentry I don't know too well. Since we don't have any of the single manager funds on the platform so far." That's as of November 2008. "Certainly it's very good performing with a long track record in investing equities and options strategies, but it's a bit untransparent to understand fully how they work as I've heard from other sources." And attached is this presentation. That's November 2008. It's clear from that email that Julius Baer does not seem to have much knowledge at all about Fairfield Sentry and it's very late in the day as far as what we are concerned about for establishing jurisdictional contacts.

So then they have pointed to today repeatedly and I'm sure we'll hear about again, well, okay, there's a subscription agreement, right? So all of this much ado I have just made, that's not that big a deal, right? Because we've got the subscription agreements. Not so. Not here.

The liquidators concede they did not find in discovery a long-form subscription agreement executed by Citco in connection with the BJB redemptions at issue here. So again, they're going to tell you, well, you have to assume it was there then if they didn't make investments in Fairfield Sentry. But I don't think we have to make that assumption. Maybe the long-form subscription agreement never got signed and the transactions went through anyway. That's why we need the evidence. They've had more than a chance, two years' worth, to get jurisdictional discovery and evidence, which sort of detoured to do all that even though there was no predicate for it. And yet they come up empty on that. So all of the stuff that they point to in the subscription agreement that says this incorporates the memorandum, this says you know this and that information, and we can then charge you with all of that knowledge, they don't have the evidence to prove that and to make that case here.

So then they say, okay, we do have examples of the short-form subscription agreements. And so as you may recall, Your Honor, there was a longer-form subscription agreement that usually got signed at least once at the beginning and then there were these tagalong sort of one or two-pagers that just said, well, we incorporate the long-form that we already signed and sign us up for some more shares, which is the shorthand way of doing it.

They point to one example, it's Exhibit 25.

There's nothing on the face of it that really ties it to Julius Baer. And even if it did, without the long-form subscription agreement, I would submit that doesn't get them very far.

Then they get to the point in their background when we're talking about the redemption process, which is really what this case is about. And that's sort of the focus. But they point to the redemptions and they start saying, well, Citco Bank designated its U.S. correspondent account in certain of these transactions and Sentry used a correspondent account in certain of these transactions. But what's an important distinction here, Your Honor, and to kind of go back where I started where these cases are somewhat different, materially different I think than some of the other cases you've seen so far, is there's no allegations here that Julius Baer was using its own correspondent account, which was something that it did rely on in some of the prior opinions for some of the other cases and other contacts. They were using their own correspondent account. It wasn't passive, I think as you noted in your opinion and you also noted, the defendants in those other contacts were in fact the registered shareholders of the funds at issue.

Here, a completely different story. And I sort of said this at the beginning. But the other big distinction about this case is -- and why you've perhaps got sort of all these multitude of defendants is all of the transactions at issue in this case were pursuant to shareholder agreements that Citco bank signed. Citco bank was the registered shareholder, and it did it on behalf of other defendants, Bank Julius Baer was one, who in turn did it on behalf of its clients.

But this is not the same case as those where you have these individual defendants signing up directly with Fairfield Sentry and becoming the registered shareholder and then directing to their own correspondent account. It's a different set of facts, Your Honor. I don't want to gloss over that and treat it, well, it's all the same, it's no different. It is different.

Ane one thing that came up earlier -- and Mr. Jonas made the point, well, these are fronts. It's all fronts, right? Citco (indiscernible) just a front for Julius Baer and that's how we should look at this. Well, I sort of posed a different way of looking at that, Your Honor and would pose sort of a rhetorical question to think about it as you go through this. But how many levels and steps removed is attenuated enough? When do we get to the point where we say, well, you weren't the one who was actually investing in Madoff. That was Sentry. And you weren't the one who invested in Sentry. That was Citco. Okay. Now we get to the next level. How many layers can we go back? Maybe it's liquidators' view that you could be ten times removed and it would be the same argument. But there seems to be no principal distinction at this point. So every time you remove a layer of direct nexus and activity, that should under basic jurisdictional principles be relevant to the totality of circumstances in deciding that this is not enough. It's not enough for these defendants under these circumstances, which are different than what you've seen in some of the other cases, to expect that they would have been hailed into court on that basis. And we talked already -somebody else talked about and I won't repeat and belabor that relationships, business relationships, totally legitimate, non-nefarious relationships -- this happens every day all over the world -- can be arranged to try to avoid certain jurisdictional contacts. There's nothing wrong with that. It happens all the time. And so to the extent that this is what was happening in this context in part, whether they want to attribute it to that, it's still removed enough that it shouldn't make a case, especially when we've seen all the other things that they've pointed to are not also helping to support their case that there's nothing here. And that's why we go back to when we started with the original pleading, there was nothing there. Even with the evidence. And if you consider the evidence, it doesn't add up to what they claim it does.

The only other thing I wanted to note, Your Honor, is just on the jurisdictional discovery and when we're in the land where we're going to credit it and say, okay, well, we've gone down that road so we are going to -- whether it was legitimate or proper at the time it was done, we've made that choice. And I submit to you that I don't think that's an irrevocable choice and you should look back at the pleadings. But at this point the liquidators are charged with coming forward with whatever evidence they have to make their jurisdictional case, and it has to be factually supported. And you've seen the type of record they've put together, both timewise, date-wise, substance-wise. It does not make the case and support the narrative that they have tried to lay out in their papers. And for those reasons, we submit there is no jurisdiction over Bank Julius Baer here. And unless you have any questions, Your Honor, I will rest on that and reserve time if necessary.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. JONAS: Again, Your Honor, Jeff Jonas, Brown Rudnik, for the liquidators. I'm just going to go off my remarks for a moment just to say the following, Your Honor.

I think that a lot of what was said is old ground that has been plowed. It's been plowed by the Second Circuit, by Judge Schofield, it's been plowed by Judge Morris, and it's been plowed by you. The question isn't how far back or how many -- it's a simple question. Did this particular sophisticated financial investor knowingly want to take advantage of the U.S. securities markets and invest in Madoff? If they did that, they're subject to jurisdiction. Full stop. End of story. That's my view. I know you didn't go there in your opinion because you had other facts to work with. And you said, well, yeahy, they did that. And they used correspondent banks, and they might have had meetings. And I get it. So you didn't have to, so you didn't.

But I think the district court has gone there.

They looked at it very carefully and they were dealing with the question of whether the defendant there should be able to have an appeal because the defendant said, hey, all Judge Morris did -- I think the word was simply -- was found that if you simply and knowingly invest in Madoff, is that enough? District court said yes.

So, again, I'm going to show more. But I think a lot of this is just going around in circles. And I think with the additional defendants, I bet we will continue to go around in circles. And I don't think we need to. And I think, as I said, just to summarize -- and I'll get to the detail -- there's two bases. He spent a lot of time on, well, we had no direct contacts and the dates were this -- I'm going to blow all that away in about two seconds. I'll get there. But that's even secondary. Because in this case, it has to be the case that when you use an agent, that you impute the agent's conduct to the principal. When they say go invest for us, we know it's Madoff -- and I'll show you how they know that. But go invest for us effectively through Fairfield in Madoff. And then their agent signed subscription agreements, looks at PPMs that -- it's clear.

So again, two bases. One, imputation, which I think is very strong. And I don't even think we have to get to direct contacts but let me do that now.

Again, Your Honor, it is another case where an investor, Bank Julius Baer, or BJB, had its agent front its investments in Fairfield. Again, that agent was Citco. I won't repeat my prior arguments regarding imputation of Citco as agent, its conduct to its principal. All of that applies here. Substantially all of BJB's arguments its reply memorandum of August 2023 have been rejected by the Court's memorandum opinions and orders earlier this year. However, there are additional overwhelming facts here that support personal jurisdiction. Many of the facts here are similar to those in Picard v. Bank Julius Baer, 2022 WL 17726520, a Judge Morris decision from December of '22 where she rejected BJB's efforts to have the Madoff trustee's action against it dismissed for lack of personal jurisdiction. I would urge you to look at that, Your Honor. 2022 WL 17726520.

I would like to highlight the following facts as supported by the evidence we've submitted in the record.

Although for the most part BJB used its agent, Citco, to invest in Fairfield, BJB itself received offering materials including PPMs which, as we've seen before, highlighted BLMIS's role including that substantially all of Fairfield's assets would be invested with BLMISI and the split-strike strategy.

And I would urge you to look at Exhibit 11, Your Honor. This is something that was produced to us. I notice there's no Bates because it was produced in native format.

I'll represent to you it was produced by Julius Baer. It's a July 1st, 2000 Sentry information memorandum. So I guess they could say, well, we didn't get that until 2007, '08, '09. Today I can't prove otherwise. They produced it to us. That's the date of it. I think that's enough. But I'll do a lot better than that, but I just wanted to make that point. And there's other references as well to Exhibit -- there are later PPMs, which I know the point was made. Those are Exhibits 29 and 30.

Our point is that we believe they demonstrate that BJB knew it was investing in New York-based BLMIS independent of its agents' conduct, which is clear.

BJB's agent, Citco, entered into 14 separate subscription agreements. Those are at Exhibit 37. However, on at least one occasion in connection with a transfer of an investment, BJB itself signed a subscription agreement containing provisions for governance of New York law and consent to New York courts. That's Exhibit 6.

BJB sent 14 subscription payments to its agent Citco's U.S. correspondent bank account at HSBC amounting a total of almost $3 million. That's Exhibit 38 and 39. The record demonstrates that for 24 (indiscernible) Sentry redemption payments that were made to BJB's agent, Citco, totaling almost $8 million, Citco instructed Sentry to wire the redemption payments to Citco's U.S. correspondent account at HSBC.

Your Honor, I just want to mention it again. I don't want to go back over old ground. But the point was made strongly, well, that's not our correspondent's bank, it's our agent's correspondent bank. I would urge you to look at Spetner, Your Honor. It's crystal clear that a principal can be found to have jurisdictional contact based on its agent's use of a correspondent bank. That's exactly what happened here.

Your Honor, I want to hand up one -- and I apologize, I don't have an extra copy. But it's our Exhibit 33. May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Of course. Please.

MR. JONAS: Because I just want to put a stake in this.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. JONAS: Thank you. Exhibit 33, Your Honor.

If you look at Exhibit 33 -- and I've highlighted something for you just to make it easy -- you'll see that this is an email, March 19th, 2003 from -- and it's one of many examples -- from FGG, which was Fairfield's manager, to Johathan Morgan at Julius Baer. And look at his email address, Your Honor. Jonathan.Morgan@JuliusBaer.com.

Confirming "the meeting with Mr. Bernard Madoff at Mr.

Madoff's office located at Bernard L. Madoff Investment

Securities, 885 Third Avenue, 18th Floor, New York, New York." I don't think -- I heard an argument, well, there might have been meetings, but we were talking about other funds. FGG had lots of funds. I don't think, Your Honor -- I can't prove it. I don't think they met with Bernie Madoff to talk about other FGG funds. They probably met with Bernie Madoff, I think it's a reasonable supposition to talk about Madoff funds. And that's what they did in 2003. They continue to invest until 2007. I mean, how much more direct contact with the jurisdiction to prove that they knew they were investing in Madoff do I need to show? They went to New York, they went to Madoff. They met with Bernie Madoff. I assume they talked about the Madoff funds. And then they continued to invest.

I think it's a slam dunk, Your Honor, on that point, for their direct contacts. I don't think that qualifies as fortuitous or random.

Your Honor, I also note, as we did in our papers, Exhibit 18. BJB had its own direct separate agreement with Fairfield's managers, FGL and FGG, to get paid for placing investments into Fairfield. My point is they knew what was going on, they were meeting with Madoff, they were in New York, et cetera, et cetera. Thus, BJB itself directly had numerous, knowing, purposeful, and repeated contacts with the United States, New York, in an effort to obtain the benefits which the U.S. securities market and banking system offer. With those benefits come the burden of being subject to U.S. jurisdiction. It's contacts were nor random, fortuitous, or attenuated. They were anything but. And their motion should be denied. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. HALPER: May I?

THE COURT: Please.

MR. HALPER: So just a couple of points, Your Honor. First of all, just to emphasize, and I didn't really do any response to this. The setup of these cases, the way in which these investments were done through Citco Bank is entirely and materially different from other cases that you've heard and pointed to.

So even while we've reserved our rights, Your Honor, we're not up here debating and rearguing old ground on your holdings as to what the law is and/or even other holdings in that regard. It's a factual exercise. And Mr.

Jonas -- and they did it in their original pleadings, they did it in their brief with these exhibits, and they're doing it again now. They want to kind of say, look, I'm going to show you there's enough here. It's kind of the smoke, there's got to be fire kind of argument. That's not the jurisdictional analysis. They wanted the discovery.

They've now got to show factually supported averments that support jurisdiction. It's not (indiscernible) stood right here two seconds ago saying, look, I can't tell you what they talked about in that meeting. I assume because they're meeting with Madoff, who had an entire business, Fairfield, who had an entire business that is not limited to Sentry, that they must have been talking about Sentry and you just have to take that on faith because either liquidators can't give you any evidence of it. That is not the way jurisdictional analysis works. That's not good enough to support jurisdiction. And that's what he's asking you to do, Your Honor.

Let me briefly mention the other decision, which is referenced for another defendant and it's referenced here. In another case, Julius Baer is a defendant in a case brought by the Madoff trustee, by Picard. And he says, well, there was findings there, end of story. Right? Again, totally different. That case was based on the pleadings. No jurisdictional discovery. So the entire analysis is apples and oranges to what we're trying to do here. All they had to do was -- and they did something that the liquidators failed to do in five amended complaints. They actually had specific allegations to support jurisdiction. We dispute them. We don't think that they're right. But they had them in their pleadings. And that was decided on the pleadings. So that decision has no relevance here and does not get them the quick here's the easy answer, just look over there, nothing to see here. Completely different.

And the same with the district court decision that he was referencing that was addressing another defendant's decision that was similar that they had taken up. Again, on the pleadings. So it's just addressing a wholly different type of jurisdictional analysis.

Exhibit 11 he pointed to. Again, he can see there's no date. These are not sort of little details that we can just sort of swap aside and ignore when inconvenient. They need to make the jurisdictional case. And they've got to show the facts, and they can't do it.

He points to Exhibit 33 with the meeting which we just talked about. But he says it's one of many examples. It's not one of many examples. We went through the few examples that they point to. There's not that many, and none of them get them where they need to get.

So again, unless you have any questions, Your Honor, we'll rest there. And thank you for your time.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. JONAS: Your Honor, I won't -- I'll just go to something new that I missed, because I guess good lawyers can see things different ways, Your Honor. But I'm just baffled by the position that we haven't demonstrated personal jurisdiction based on direct contacts and based on imputation. But we will leave that to you, Your Honor.

I just wanted to -- one point. It's been said a few times, this group pleading argument. And I did cite a case previously, but I just want to come back to it because it just strikes me that here we are ten-plus years into this case. And I will say, Your Honor, our complaint at 114 we allege that by virtue of brokerage and custody agreements the Citco subscribers had acted as an agent for all of the defendants. That would include BJB. At 44 we allege that some or all of the redemption payments to the Citco subscriber were paid to BJB, said that. Section C of the complaint we described in detail the relationship between the Citco subscriber and all of the defendants. So, first of all, I think the complaint was good enough. Second of all, it can't be the case that we can go through jurisdictional discovery. Their position basically is we can't even introduce jurisdictional discovery. It makes no sense to me. We've done the discovery, we've produced the record to you. I think it's more than satisfactory, and I think you have to be cognizant of the record and the evidence. And on all of these bases, Your Honor, we would ask that Bank Julius Baer's motion to dismiss be denied. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

1 MR. HALPER: Your Honor, one short additional 2 point. 3 Just identify yourself for the record. THE COURT: MR. HALPER: Sorry, Your Honor. Rick Halper again 4 5 for Bank Julius Baer. Your Honor, on the agency and 6 imputation point, again, they want to take refuge in that as 7 well. The exhibit that they really rely on that sets that up is Exhibit 7. It's brokerage and custody agreement 8 between Citco Bank and Bank Julius Baer, all foreign 9 10 parties, all under foreign law subject to foreign 11 jurisdiction. And that is a general agreement that set up a 12 relationship that is not specific and makes no mention 13 whatsoever of Sentry, Fairfield, Madoff, et cetera. 14 So again, Mr. Jonas wants to come up here and say 15 imputation, and it's all out there. Well, we need the 16 evidence that ties -- if that's going to be the argument, 17 that ties Citco to Bank Julius Baer, not Citco to other 18 defendants or generally to Madoff or to other things that 19 they've done or they've been able to show in other contacts. 20 He didn't point you to one exhibit that really establishes 21 any of that. And it's the same thing. They're seeing a 22 theme and a pattern with the way the evidence is being used. 23 I don't think it adds up to jurisdiction, and we'll submit 24 that to Your Honor. Thank you.

Thank you, Counsel.

THE COURT:

1 MR. HALPER: Nothing further, Your Honor. 2 you. 3 Thank you. Okay. Shall we move on to THE COURT: 4 Agenda Item 6? 5 MR. GILMORE: Good morning, Your Honor. Kyllan Gilmore of Winston & Strawn LLP representing Altipro 6 7 Masterfund (indiscernible) Altigefi-Altipro Master a/k/a Olympia Capital Management in Adversary Proceeding 10-03627. 8 9 First I just want to thank you for accommodating my request to work remotely. I really appreciate that. I 10 11 won't take up too much time rehashing things. But I do want 12 to briefly emphasize a couple of things about my client. 13 Altipro is a French fund that doesn't do any business of any kind in the United States. And it didn't 14 15 directly invest in BLMIS or Fairfield Sentry Limited. 16 Instead, Altipro engaged Paribas Security Services, BNP for 17 short, which is a foreign broker, and BNP purchased the subscriptions in Sentry. And like other of the defendants 18 we've heard from today, Altipro did not sign the Sentry 19 20 subscription agreements. Those were signed by BNP, which is

And so the connection between Altipro and the forum is a lot more attenuated than, for example, the

where the trustees have said the certifications about independent investigation by the signatory and receipt of the Sentry investing materials where that certification was.

21

contacts the court found subjected HSBC to personal jurisdiction in proceeding 10-03633. And I think that order kind of confirms that no personal jurisdiction exists over Altipro because the two reasons that Your Honor found jurisdiction over HSBC do not apply. As you stated in the January 4th, 2024 order summarizing on Page 25 after noting that the sufficiency of context for personal jurisdiction is assessed on the totality of the circumstances. The order states that the Court "finds the defendant's selection and use of U.S. correspondent accounts and communications with Fairfield Greenwich Group support the Court's exercise of jurisdiction." So it was this combination or totality that the Court found sufficient, but neither of those factors apply.

any U.S. correspondent account and didn't direct anyone else to do so. Plaintiffs do allege that BNP and Sentry used U.S. correspondent accounts in redeeming Altipro's subscriptions, but Altipro did not direct BNP to do that or have any control over BNP's use of U.S. correspondent accounts. And as the Court put it on Page 19 of that order, it's "a defendant's selection and repeated use of a New York correspondent account (indiscernible) the specific selection was at the defendant's direction (indiscernible) can show the kind of purposeful and continuous contact (indiscernible) to support jurisdiction.

And so the use of correspondence accounts, which was pretty central to that ruling, really doesn't support any jurisdiction over Altipro here.

And the second thing that the Court relied on in the communications with Sentry, we've heard from other defendants' discussions of those and their relevance. And what's most important to note about Altipro is that there's no allegations that those meetings took place in New York. There's allegations that there were meetings with "New York personnel", but not in-person meetings in New York.

two contacts with the forum which are so central to the finding by the Court of personal jurisdiction in that case don't really apply to Altipro. There's not other contacts alleged that would contribute to that totality analysis, there really isn't a prima facie case for jurisdiction over Altipro, which the Plaintiffs really understand, which is why they go to such great pains in their complaint and their opposition to the motion to dismiss to argue that BNP is an agent for Altipro. But I think somewhat ironically, the line of agency cases that plaintiffs cite really confirm that there's no personal jurisdiction here because there's cases, as we explain in our reply, they describe circumstances where one party's conduct in the forum can be attributed to a foreign third party for the purposes of establishing jurisdiction. The sort of punchline for those cases, consistent with agent principles generally, is that conduct in the forum by one party cannot be attributed to a foreign third party without establishing an agency-type relationship between them, which makes sense given the Supreme Court's (indiscernible) in Fiore and McIntyre where the court held that it's the defendant's conduct in the forum that has to support jurisdiction. It's a basic school of agency law that you need an agency relationship before there can be this imputation.

And so I think plaintiffs allege that BNP acted as (indiscernible) agent in purchasing and redeeming shares, but as other defendants have noted, that relationship, those exchanges were all foreign. So the agency relationship that is relevant here is that, you know, those foreign transactions, but Altipro had no control over the transactions in the forum or BNP's conduct in or connections with New York. That's what's required to impute those connections.

So to give you just a couple of cases that we cite, In re Sumitomo Copper Litigation, 120 F. Supp. 2d 328 (S.D.N.Y. 2000), "Plaintiff's allegations must persuade a court that the defendant was a primary actor in the specific matter in question. Plaintiffs must show that defendants exercised some control over the corporation in that transaction."

And then in another case, Retail Software

Services, Inc. v. Lashlee, 854 F.2d 18 (2d Cir. 1988), personal jurisdiction based on agency where corporate officers "exercise extensive control over corporation in the transaction underlying suit".

And then in the cases that plaintiffs cite in their briefing, consistent with that idea, those cases all found personal jurisdiction but based on transactions that occurred in the forum itself. And so just to quickly kind of give you a few examples, Hartford and (indiscernible) case they cite, the agents were directed to procure New York insurance policies (indiscernible). There were extensive in-person meetings in New York in (indiscernible) by the agent negotiating on behalf of the foreign principal. In the Schecter case, the agent was directed to sign documents related to transactions that occurred in New York. And the last case, the Bernie Madoff case they cite actually is that they do have personal jurisdiction, but rather whether certain actions taken were within the scope of an undisputed agency relationship.

And unlike the situation here, just to kind of reiterate, these cases all involved extensive control by a foreign principal over (indiscernible) actions in New York.

And just to cite one more case. Charles Schwab

Corp. v. Bank of Am. Corp., 883 F.3d 68 (2d Cir. 2018), the Second Circuit found there was no agency alleged for the principles "controlled or directed" broker dealers who sold securities on their behalf without factual allegations that the principals "availed themselves of California by directing their agents to transact there," emphasis added.

So I think in this case it's important to note that BNP was not directed to do anything in the forum and BNP's actions within the forum, the use of its correspondent accounts, was not activity that was within that scope of that limited agency relationship. Instead, it's really Sentry that is alleged to have acted in the forum. And that conduct can't be attributed to Altipro because Sentry isn't even alleged to be an agent. And there is no allegations of control that support any allegation of agency there.

So I think again it's important to note that all of these agency's cases really stand for the sensible proposition that a plaintiff that's alleging personal jurisdiction over a foreign party based on conduct by another party in the forum has to establish a relevant agency relationship. And it's really the fact that that whole line of cases exists. They would essentially be meaningless if the Court wasn't required to find an agency relationship before third party conduct could be -- in the forum could form, you know, a basis of personal jurisdiction over a foreign defendant like Altipro.

So I think just to quickly summarize this point, the two reasons that the Court found jurisdiction over HSBC did not support personal jurisdiction over Altipro, which didn't use any U.S. correspondent accounts or engage in any conduct in the forum, and Altipro does not do business in the United States, only indirectly purchased subscriptions in Sentry and didn't even sign the subscriptions. And there's no other relevant contacts that would justify jurisdiction. And BNP and Sentry's conduct in the forum can't serve as a basis for jurisdiction for the reasons that we just discussed.

So Plaintiffs really haven't alleged a prima facie case for personal jurisdiction over Altipro, and there's no way they can remedy this with any additional discovery or amendments to the complaint.

And to quickly conclude, I think that the Court's finding in the HSBC case that jurisdiction wouldn't be unreasonable against that defendant also doesn't really apply to Altipro. I think that here Altipro doesn't have any U.S. affiliates or other business connections and the burden is really pretty substantial to defend against a case in the United States. And the forum I think has very little interest in forcing it to do so here because there really is 1 just no evidence connecting Altipro to any of the 2 wrongdoing. And the interest is really stronger with 3 respect to defendants that do business in the United States. So that kind of wraps up the couple points I 5 I'll just conclude by reiterating our wanted to make. 6 request that the Court grant Altipro (indiscernible) 7 dismiss. Thank you very much. 8 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. MR. JONAS: Your Honor, Jeff Jonas, Brown Rudnik, 9 10 for the liquidators in opposition to that motion to dismiss. 11 Your Honor, Altipro was a recipient of about $15 12 million in redemptions. That's what this case is about. As 13 stated, Altipro used BNP Paribas Security Services S.A., 14 I'll refer to them as BNP, as its agent for investments in 15 Fairfield Sentry. I won't repeat my prior arguments 16 regarding imputation of an agent's conduct to a principal 17 which apply here, except I want to come back to it in a 18 minute very briefly. 19 Substantially all of Altipro's argument that's in 20 its reply memorandum dated October 10th, 2023 have been 21 rejected by the court's memorandum opinions and orders 22 earlier this year. 23 Your Honor, we have put forth evidence at Exhibits 24 10 and 11 that we believe confirms that Altipro 25 independently and directly conducted diligence on Sentry, including receiving materials relating to the investments and knowing they would be placed with BLMIS. That includes some of the offering materials. Altipro was agent. BNP used U.S. correspondent banks to make subscription payments and receive redemptions. Altipro's agent, BNP, signed subscription agreements with all of the -- which we believe evidences the Madoff Investment, New York law courts, et cetera.

So with that, Your Honor, I just want to turn briefly to some of the arguments that were made because I really view them as continuing to dance on the head of a pin.

This defendant, like many of the defendants, they went out and they hire -- and there's no other word that describes it -- they hired an agent to make this investment for them. The agent as part of the requirements to make that investment, yes, signed subscription agreements, used -- they were theirs, but they had to use -- well, they didn't have to actually, but they did, they used their U.S. correspondent bank accounts, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera.

And what these defendants continually tried to do is say, well, yeah, they were our agent for the investment, but it only -- that only goes so far. That -- it just -- it really -- to me it's dancing on the head of a pin. How can you separate when you hire someone to make an investment for you if in connection with that investment they have to undertake the -- they're doing that on your behalf. And again, I come back to Spetner, Your Honor 70 F.4th 632, 2023. Second Circuit Court of Appeals found that, a foreign bank's choice -- that's the principal -- to project itself into New York can be efficient through the selection of repeated use of an agent's correspondent account in the forum. Well, its agent was using a correspondent bank account. And that's effectively -- it's got to be imputed back to the principal.

Okay. Your Honor, last, I think we've -- I agree it's more limited than some of the other cases, but we have introduced into the record Altipro conducting independent and direct diligence relating to Fairfield, including visiting Fairfield's manager, FGG in New York. Those are Exhibits 7 through 9 and 12 through 14.

And as is the case with the other defendants discussed today, Altipro itself had numerous, knowing, purposeful, repeated contacts with the United States, either itself or through its agent, in an effort to obtain the benefits of the U.S. securities market, its contacts were not random, fortuitous, or attenuated. And we would ask that the motion to dismiss be denied. Thank you, y h.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

Counsel did you wish to reply?

MR. GILMORE: Yes, Your Honor, briefly. This is Kyllan Gilmore with Winston Strawn on behalf of Altipro.

First, I just want to sort of reiterate the caselaw that the trustees (indiscernible) addressed the relevant agent conduct for the purposes of attributing conduct with the forum to a foreign defendant has to be conduct in the forum, which again, is consistent with the Supreme Courts caselaw which focuses on the defendant's conduct and contacts with the forum. And so it stands to reason that it would be the Defendant's agent's contact and conduct in the forum that would have to serve as the basis for the foreign defendant's personal jurisdiction if it wasn't the foreign defendant's conduct in the forum.

And here, the trustee acts like there's an effort to use these foreign brokers as a front of some kind, but the agency relationship really does only go so far. It's basic principle of agency law that agency relationship is defined with respect to a specific relationship or set of transactions. And here, according to their own legal standards, the alleged agent has to act in the forum for the benefit of the principal with knowledge and consent of the principal and under some control by the non-resident principal. Here, they haven't alleged that there was any control or even knowledge on behalf of Altipro's part with respect to what BNP or Sentry was specifically doing in the forum, for example, the use of these correspondence accounts. And the plaintiffs allege that there was information in Altipro's possession that could have led it to form the conclusion that U.S. correspondence accounts were going to be used. But again, this Court's ruling over HSBC makes it clear that it is the direction by principals to use U.S. correspondence accounts. And even that has to be repeated in continuous contact. That is what makes those U.S. correspondent accounts relevant for purposes of establishing personal jurisdiction over a foreign defendant.

So with that I will just conclude by saying I think there's been a lot of discussion here over the scope of this agency relationship and a lot of that sort of ignores the fact that the cases are clear it's really transactions in the forum by the agent that are relevant. Thank you.
THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. Okay. Shall we proceed to the next agenda item?
MR. JONAS: Last but not least, Your Honor.
MR. SHAIMAN: May I proceed, Your Honor?
THE COURT: please.
MR. SHAIMAN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. David Shaiman of Allegaert Berger & Vogel. And with me is my colleague, Lauren Pincus.
THE COURT: Good afternoon.

MR. SHAIMAN: We are here on behalf of Rothschild & Co. Asset Management, formerly known as Rothschild & Cie Gestion as manager of the Elan Gestion Alternative Fund, which was sued as Rothschild & Cir Bank-Ega. I will refer to them as Rothschild for simplicity. I will be very brief, Your Honor.

You've heard arguments from my colleagues today and back in October that apply equally to Rothschild, and I won't repeat them here. I'll just say that we join in all of those arguments and they are set out at length in our briefs.

What I do want to focus the Court on, however, is the extent to which Rothchild's contacts with the U.S. are lacking here.

First and foremost, Rothschild did not redeem from Fairfield Sentry. Rothschild had a single redemption from Fairfield Sigma which was denominated in Euros. This means that Rothschild did not employ a U.S. correspondent account in connection with its single redemption and the liquidators do not allege that the redemption was paid in or through a U.S. bank account, because it was not.

The only connections the liquidators point to then are in the form of communications and meetings with Fairfield personnel. But here those meetings and communications were almost exclusively withy Fairfield personnel outside of the U.S. In particular, the liquidators point to two meetings which both took place in Paris and which were both with Fairfield personnel resident in the U.K. They also point to an internal Fairfield email about a possible meeting in the U.S., but there is no evidence that meeting took place and it's not clear from the internal Fairfield email if that proposed meeting was meant to be about Sentry or another non-Madoff fund marketed by Fairfield.

The liquidators also attached the Flugman declaration, 21 emails between Fairfield and Rothchild personnel which they claim demonstrate diligence Rothschild conducted on the Fairfield funds. But of those 21 emails, 17 are with Fairfield personnel in the U.K., Spain, or Bermuda. The other four emails which at least appear to be with Fairfield personnel in the U.S., are ministerial in nature. One asked to be added to a mailing list, another provides a prospectus expressly on behalf of a Fairfield employee in Spain. And the final two emails simply transmit weekly nay reports.

Simply put, Rothschild, which redeemed only from Sigma, did not use a U.S. based correspondent bank account and communicated almost exclusively with Fairfield personnel located outside of the U.S. is not reasonably subject to jurisdiction in the U.S.

Unless Your Honor has any questions, we'll rest on our papers for our remaining arguments and submit to Your Honor that the motion should be granted.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. SHAIMAN: Thank you.

MR. JONAS: Jeff Jonas, Brown Rudnick, for the liquidators. I hope you remember, Your Honor, at the beginning of this argument when I -- and since then I kept making the point that per the district court all you need to do is show knowing -- show that an investment purposely and knowingly was -- knew they were investing in Madoff, taking advantage of U.S. securities (indiscernible). This was the case I was really making -- I wanted to make the point too, but this was the one I was talking about. We are not alleging use of correspondent banks, Your Honor. We're not alleging direct meetings in New York. I don't take issue with any of those statements. But yet I still think the motion to dismiss should be denied. So let me tell you why.

Rothschild used BNP Paribas as its agent for investments in Fairfield. And I won't repeat my prior arguments regarding imputation of an agent's conduct to the principal. They all apply here, Your Honor, and I think carry the day.

However, we believe we've also met our burden with respect to personal jurisdiction over Rothschild based on the following.

We've submitted evidence into the record confirming certain direct interactions by Rothchild with Fairfield's U.S.-based manager, FGG, including Rothschild seeking and obtaining diligence materials. Those are Exhibits 14 through 16 and 21 and PPMs which as we've seen made it clear to Rothschild they were investing in New York-based BLMIS and the U.S. securities markets. That's Exhibit 34 and Exhibit 35, Exhibit 37.

The evidence also establishes that either

Rothschild or its agent, it's a little bit unclear on this one, Your Honor, entered into a subscription agreement providing for governance under New York law and consent to the jurisdiction of the New York courts. Even accepting it was its agent, Your Honor, for all the reasons I stated, I think that's enough. That's Exhibits 35 and 37. And based on the evidence, Your Honor, again, none of this was random, fortuitous, or attenuated. Rothschild knew it was investing in Madoff. They wanted to take advantage of the U.S. securities market, it did. And on that basis even alone, Your Honor, the motion to dismiss should be denied. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

MR. SHAIMAN: David Shaiman of Allegaert Berger & Vogel on behalf of Rothschild. Just two quick points, Your Page 131 1 Honor. All of the emails and exhibits that Mr. Jonas cited 2 to exactly make our point. Those were diligence materials 3 which were asked for from FGG employees located outside of 4 the U.S. They were not FGG U.S. employees. 5 And on the BNP point, as I said, we're not going 6 to retread the arguments that have been made today. We join 7 in the arguments that our colleagues have made on that 8 point. Thank you. 9 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. 10 MR. JONAS: Nothing further, Your Honor. Thank 11 you. 12 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel. I will take all 13 of the motions under advisement that we've heard today. 14 Anything else for today? 15 MR. JONAS: Not from us, Your Honor. Thank you 16 very much for your patience with us today. 17 THE COURT: Okay, we are adjourned. Thank you for the excellent presentations, everyone. Have a great day. 18 19 (Whereupon these proceedings were concluded at 20 12:52 PM) 21 22 23 24 25
